STOCK MARKETS AWAITING EVENTS

DUBLIN

On the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday the chief feature was the nervousness prevailing in the British Industrial group, and, although there was no undue selling pressure, there was a further severe marking down in prices. Local Industrials met with some profit-taking, and also made a dull showing. The Gilt-edged group continued firm. Home Government Funds enjoyed support, and the Second National Loan hardened to 108¾; the Fourth Loan advanced 7/6 to 98¾, while 4½ p.c. Land Bonds spurted 22/6 to 107⅛. War Loan made further headway to 99⅛. Banks met with renewed liquidation on the part of nervous holders. Munster and Leinsters relapsed 4/- to 95/-; and Nationals 2/6 to 35/-.

Business all round the House continued to move slowly, and once again the bulk of available support was concentrated on gilt-edged securities in anticipation of re-investment of a substantial proportion of the coming big interest disbursements. Conditions on the whole were dull and uncertain.

Gilt-edged stocks were in good form from the outset, and, with the effect of re-investment prospects accentuated by the Chancellor's comments about the coming War Loan, moderately active buying, which again embraced many issues, enabled quotations to move steadily ahead. The market derived further stimulus from the gradual disappearance of equity attractions, and when trading ceased rises were noticeable all down the list. War Loan 3½ per cent. put on another ½ to 99¼. War Loan 3 per cent. strengthened to par, and Old Consols gained ¼ to 74. Local Loans and Conversion 3½ per cent. also showed to advantage, and I.F.S. Land Bonds recovered to 107½. India stocks provided little of interest, but Dominion and Colonial issues finished at higher levels.

Occasional sales gave the Foreign Bond market a depressed appearance. Chinese Government issues were mostly a point off, and fresh declines of ½ occurred in leading Japanese Loans. Brazilian Bonds shared in the recession. Europeans remained idle.

British Rails gave another unsatisfactory performance, but, while prices continued to depreciate, marking down was out of proportion to the volume of selling in progress. Business was finally quoted widely at 46¼, at which level a fall of 3½ was recorded, whilst Great Western Ord. was scaled down from 30 to 30¼. Some of the minor charges sustained considerably larger declines, and, in the case of L.M.S. 5 p.c. Red. Pref., the closing level was 5 points down at 77½. Dublin Rails also experienced dismal conditions. Colonial and American Rails were quiet.

INDUSTRIALS

Although not altogether unexpected, the application of the 100 per Cent. E.P.T. to all companies, and the British Chancellor's indication of more taxes in the near future, combined to depress leading Industrial Equities. A certain amount of forced liquidation was reported, and with dealers unwilling to take stock another substantial marking down was witnessed.

The chief sufferers included declines of ½ in "Imps," 2/6 in Bass, 3/- in Guinness, 2/6 in Woolworths, 2/3 in Courtaulds, 2/- in United Molasses, 1/6 in Dunlops, and 2/- in Stewarts and Lloyds Deferred.

In fact, all sections reflected the prevailing tendency, and in the absence of supporting orders closing prices were about the lowest of the day. Lever and Unilever moved against the general trend with a rise of 3d. to 25/-.

MINES

Mining shares were still dull. There was again an attempt to offer stock, with a consequent depressing effect on quotations. Reported forced liquidation accentuated the lower tendency in some directions. Rhodesian Coppers were

PETROL FOR TOURISTS

Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Supplies, told Mr. E. O'Neill (F.G., Cork, W.), in the Dail yesterday, that up to recently limited supplies of petrol were made available for incoming tourists, but he was not in a position to indicate whether it would be possible to renew these facilities. The whole matter, however, was constantly under consideration by his Department, having regard to the supplies of petrol available from time to time for essential purposes in the country.

DEPENDENT ON VOLUNTARY SUPPORT

SUCCESSFUL YEAR OF DRUMCONDRA HOSPITAL

In spite of increased costs for supplies, the Drumcondra Hospital had been able to meet all expenses in 1939, it was stated at the annual meeting which was held yesterday, Mr. A. E. McIvor presiding.

The report of the Committee, which was read by Mr. A. Strain, stated that everyone would be affected by the disastrous upheaval, but surely the claims of that small hospital would not suffer. While it was difficult to visualise the days ahead, the hospital had always been happy in its friends. The report thanked the Linen Guild, the Dublin Hospital Sunday Fund, the employés of city companies who gave their support, the Dublin Corporation, and general subscribers.

Mr. J. E. Robinson, Hon. Registrar, read the financial statement, which showed that receipts had amounted to £3,046, and that there was a credit bala: e of £6.

The report of the Medical Board, read by Dr. M. A. McKeever, showed that 391 cases had been treated in the hospital during the year. Advice and treatment had been given to over 4,000 patients. The Board expressed their appreciation of the excellent work done by the Lady Superintendent, Miss Cullen, and the staff.

Proposing the adoption of the reports, the Chairman said that the Drumcondra Hospital was run entirely on a voluntary basis, and did not participate in any sweepstake scheme. It was gratifying to learn, therefore, that in 1939 the expenses had been met fully out of revenue, which was a clear indication that the utmost care had been exercised. The costs of maintenance were rising steadily in every direction, but, notwithstanding those difficulties, the work of the hospital was a duty that must not be neglected. It was hoped that all new and old friends would see that by co-operation and assistance it would have no problem that could not be solved in the difficult days that lay ahead.

Lady Talbot de Malahide, Mrs. B. F. Eustace and Mr. T. Buchanan were re-elected to the committee on the motion of Mr. James Beggs, seconded by Mr. A. Ewing.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY

LOWER ADMISSION PRICES AT HORSE SHOW

A meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Society was held in the Council Chamber, Ballsbridge, yesterday, the Hon. W. E. Wylie, K.C., President, in the chair. The Council's warmest congratulations were extended to Professor A. W. Conway, F.R.S., Vice-President, on his recent appointment as President of University College, Dublin. As Chairman of the Executive Committee, the President reported that the recent Spring Show had been highly successful, notwithstanding the many difficulties of the present year.

It was unanimously decided that a general reduction of approximately one-third should be made in the prices of admission to the coming Horse Show, full details to be published later.

Mr. Jack B. Yeats, R.H.A., was appointed to represent the Society as one of the judges in the 1941 Taylor Art competition.

Honorary membership of the Society for the period of their terms of office in Dublin was conferred on Mr. David Grey, American Minister; Mr. John Hall Kelly, Canadian High Commissioner, and Monsieur Xavier de Laforcade, French Minister.

MATERNITY NURSE ACQUITTED

ACCUSED WOMAN FURTHER QUESTIONED

CLOSE OF CORK MURDER TRIAL

Mrs. Ellen Anthony, Tuckey street, Cork, a maternity nurse who was charged with the murder of Bridie Kirk (26), of Knockgriffin, Midleton, Co. Cork at Lavitt's quay, between 1st and 4th August, 1939, was acquitted by the jury and discharged. The case had been four days at hearing.

Mr. R. McLoughlin, K.C., with Mr. Barra O Briain, K.C. and Mr. J. Kealy (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted. Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., and Mr. M. O'Driscoll (instructed by Mr A. M. Healy) defended.

In cross-examination the accused woman said that she had called at Lavitt's quay on Wednesday morning because she wanted to see the girl's mother and to find out the girl's arrangements for that day. She was also anxious about the girl herself until she had seen her mother.

Asked why it was that it was only in the first statement to the Guards she had told them that Daly had got her to book a room at Lavitt's quay, she replied: "I told the Guards everything." Bridie Kirk told her that she had not taken any pills since she came to Cork. She kept an eye on her and did not see her taking any.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Driscoll, the accused woman said tha she had attended hundreds of maternity cases without the assistance of a doctor. She had treated many cases of natural abortion successfully without a doctor.

QUESTIONED BY THE JUDGE

Mr. Justice Conor Maguire—Are you suggesting that in your practice you frequently come across cases of abortion in unmarried women?—No, my lord.

When you refer to natural abortion you refer to cases of married women?—Married women having abortions.

Why did you apparently put this case on the same level as what you call a natural abortion?—I did not really put it on the same level.

Why on the morning of Friday, in all the extraordinary circumstances of this case, did you not invite the assistance of a medical man?—I wanted her to have a few hours' rest. I knew it would have to be put into the hands of a medical man.

Mrs. Mary Thomas, proprietress of a restaurant and café in Cork, said that Bridie Kirk came into her restaurant on 1st August and she noticed a change in her appearance. It was so great that she (witness) scarcely recognised the girl.

This closed the evidence for the defence, and Mr. O'Driscoll addressed the jury on behalf of the accused woman.

Mr. Barra O'Briain replied for the State.

Mr. Justice Conor Maguire, in his charge to the jury, said that if drugs were administered for the purpose of procuring an abortion and the woman to whom they were administered died in consequence, the person or persons who were party to their administration were guilty of murder

In view of Daly's arrangement with Nurse Anthony in the first place to book the room, his constant visits to the girl's bedroom at Lavitt's Quay and his visit with her to the pictures, was it not asking them too much to believe that all the time Nurse Anthony thought it was some other person, and not Daly, who was responsible for the girl's self-confessed condition. If Nurse Anthony had been really anxious about the girl's condition could she not have sent a telegram to Mrs. Kirk?

Before finding the accused woman guilty they must first satisfy themselves that the prosecution had brought home beyond all reasonable doubt that she was associated with Daly in the administration of drugs for the purpose of procuring the abortion.

After an absence of three-quarters of an hour the jury found that the accused woman was not guilty, and she was discharged.

The jury was exempted from service for a period of four years.

The Court adjourned until 11 o'clock today.

ROYAL IRISH AUTOMOBILE CLUB

NEW HONORARY MEMBERS

The readiness of the Royal Irish Automobile Club to co-operate with the authorities in air raid precautions work was expressed by the Chairman, Major Roy Cusack, at yesterday's annual meeting in Dublin. He and other members of the Committee had been attending A.R.P. meetings, but the matter had been dropped.

One of their members, Lord Monteagle, had been nominated to the Tourist Board. He suggested a greater use of the railways in travelling with their cars to touring centres, thus preserving their petrol for use on holiday. He did not think they could complain about the way the Government had treated everybody in regard to petrol rationing; everyone had been treated fairly.

The Earl of Granard, President of the Club, referred to the losses suffered through the deaths of Mr. C. H. O'Conor, Mr. S. T. Robinson and Major R. Murdock. He stressed the fact that theirs was the national motoring club of Ireland, and they did their best to help all motorists.

The Committee were re-elected, and among the honorary members elected were:—The President, Dr. Hyde; Mr. de Valera, the Ministers for Industry and Commerce and Local Government, Mr. W. T. Cosgrave, Sir John Maffey, the representatives of the Holy See and foreign countries in Dublin, and the Chief Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner of the Civic Guard.

DUBLIN BEAD WORKERS' STRIKE

Mr. Sean MacEntee, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said in the Dail yesterday, in reply to Mr. James Everett (Labour, Wicklow), that he would be prepared to refer the dispute between the Irish Women Workers' Union and Messrs. Alex. Mitchel and Co., Rosary bead manufacturers, Waterford street, Dublin, for settlement by arbitration, and, in accordance with the Industrial Courts Act, appoint an independent arbitrator to decide the matters at issue. In an effort to settle this dispute his Department had already held a joint conference, which, unfortunately, did not result in agreement.

LIABLE FOR ESTATE DUTY

PETITION OF MEATH FARMER DISMISSED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA, MR. JUSTICE GAVAN DUFFY AND MR. JUSTICE MARTIN MAGUIRE.)

Judgment was given dismissing with costs the petition of Patrick D. Cullinan, farmer, Carrollstown, Trim, brought by way of appeal against the fixing by the Revenue Commissioners of estate duty at £1,329 on settled property in Meath, passing on the death of his father, Patrick Joseph Cullinan. The petition asked the Court to declare that estate duty was not payable on the property, or that liability for the payment of estate duty had become barred before the claim of the Commissioners had been made.

The Court gave the petitioner leave to appeal to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Hanna in the course of his judgment said that the original testator had settled nine different denominations of property; first of all on his daughter, Mrs. Cullinan, for life; then the remainder to her husband, and then to any son. The only son was the petitioner, who was the executor of the will. Mrs. Cullinan, the testator's daughter, died in June, 1919, and eight of the items were brought into charge, one—which was immaterial for the purposes of the petition—being omitted. Estate duty had been assessed on the property and had been paid. Mrs. Cullinan's husband died a few years afterwards, and on his death the petitioner returned the same denominations of property, omitting one lot, as having been omitted in 1919 or 1920, when the property was charged on the death of Mrs. Cullinan. There was a note on the affidavit that no estate duty was chargeable on the death of the husband, because it had already been paid by Mrs. Cullinan's estate.

The matter apparently had been cleared up in 1924, and nothing further was heard until April, 1938, when the Revenue Commissioners served notice on the executor, claiming in substance that certain items in the original assessment should be re-assessed at market value, and estate duty adjusted in accordance with that value.

CLAIM OF REVENUE COMMISSIONERS

Finally, in July, 1939, the Revenue Commissioners made a ruling against the executor on the basis that they were entitled to reopen the assessment and revalue certain items. In the return made on the death of Mrs. Cullinan there were two items valued at "nil," and in the schedule of particulars given on the husband's death these two items were repeated as being valued at "nil," and it was in respect of these two items that the Revenue Commissioners now claimed readjustment, for the reason that the valuation had been put on them subsequent to the passing of the Land Act, 1923, by reason of which, and the Land Act of 1931, they had been taken out of the principle of valuation in force at the time and should be valued on the principle of market value.

In substance, what the Court had to decide was whether, estate duty having been paid on the death of Mrs. Cullinan, the Revenue Commissioners had power, by reason of any alteration in the value of the property, to reopen, revalue and re-assess estate duty.

Mr. Justice Hanna referred to Section 5 (2) of the Finance Act, 1894, the vital words of which were, he said, "It estate duty has already been paid in respect of any settled property since the date of the settlement estate duty shall not be payable in respect thereof." That was, he explained, no further estate duty should be paid in respect of it.

He was inclined to think, not without some hesitation, that the phrase in regard to settled property should be read distributively, and reading the words distributively and applying them to the facts of this case, he could not think that the return of "nil" in respect of the two items which he had mentioned was equivalent to the payment of estate duty on them within the meaning of the section.

Section 70 of the Act stated that estate duty should be calculated at the appropriate rate, but that if afterwards it appeared that too little duty had been paid, additional duty should be payable and considered as duty in arrear. It appeared to him that under that section the Revenue Commissioners had power to reopen this account, passed on the death of the husband, notwithstanding that fifteen or sixteen years had elapsed.

In regard to the operation of the Statute of Limitations, Mr. Justice Hanna said that in order to claim as against the Revenue Commissioners the benefits of the Statute of Limitations there must have been a statement of accounts in all respects full and true and containing all the facts material for the ascertainment of the rate. In the present case, undoubtedly, on the death of the husband this property had been wrongly described, and the petitioner could not claim under the statute.

Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy and Mr. Justice Martin Maguire agreed that the petition should be dismissed.

Mr. A. K. Overend, K.C., and Mr. Maurice Walker (instructed by Messrs. Horan and Devine) appeared for Mr. Cullinan; and Mr. T. S. McCann, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Geraghty (instructed by Mr. Bartholomew Collins) for the Revenue Commissioners.

MARKED FALL IN INFANT MORTALITY

WORK OF ST. PATRICK'S INFANT HOSPITAL

A remarkable fall in the infant mortality rate was recorded in the medical report of St. Patrick's Infant Hospital (Incorporated), which was read yesterday at the annual general meeting of the hospital at Temple Hill House, Blackrock, County Dublin.

During the year 1939-40 the mortality rate was just over 2 per cent., as compared with 22 per cent. in the year 1934-35.

In the year under review, there had been 90 admissions, 82 discharges and three deaths, giving a mortality of 3.3 per cent., compared with the year 1938-39 when there had been 94 admissions, 52 discharges and two deaths—a mortality of 2.2 per cent.

The report summarised the main purposes of the hospital, which dealt with chronic problems, necessitating months of dietetic treatment. There was an enormous demand for bed accommodation for this type of chronic case. It acted also as a Nursery Training College. In this respect it was the only complete training school for nursery nursing in Ireland.

Mr. Reginald J. White, F.R.C.S.I., presided at the meeting.

The report of the St. Patrick's Guild Organisation made an appeal for additional accommodation, in order that every delicate child might have a separate cubicle. The Hospitals Trust had been generous, and had given them a splendid laundry, but accommodation was needed for at least twenty-five more infants.

Dr. J. A. Harbison, moving the adoption of the report, paid a tribute to the work done by the medical and nursing staffs of the hospital, and said that until the health education of this country had reached a higher standard than at present there would be many young mothers faced with the untuitonal problem of an infant, and the nursery nurse, gave them great assistance. The hospital looked forward to expansion, in spite of trying times. He hoped that funds would be forthcoming for a work so worth while.

Dr. Colman Saunders spoke of the modern improvements in the hospital, and praised the work that it was doing.

The Rev. Father Hayes and Alderman Kelly (deputising for the Lord Mayor) also spoke.

NEW DUBLIN 'BUS TERMINUS PROPOSAL

OPPOSED BY RAILWAY COMPANY AND POLICE

The Dublin Corporation is asked to reject Aston's Quay as a site for a terminus for long-distance omnibus traffic, and to approve of Smithfield as a temporary site in the report of the General Purposes' Committee, to be considered at next Monday's meeting of Dublin City Council.

The Great Southern Railways Co., who control most of the long-distance omnibuses, according to the report, were strongly in favour of the Aston's Quay site, where they had had temporary premises for some years. The Garda authorities also approved of this site, on account of its central situation.

If Smithfield were utilised it would be necessary to run additional omnibuses to bring long-distance passengers to the city centre. The Garda insisted that the site be near O'Connell Bridge, where the local 'bus and tram services converged.

The cost of acquiring a site and erecting a terminus would fall to the railway company and the Corporation, while they had the right to veto an unsuitable site, could not order the company to pay for a station on a site of which neither the Garda nor the company approved.

The Law Agent had advised that as Smithfield was recognised as a public market, the Corporation should let it remain so.

The Town Planning Committee, added the report, having discussed the matter fully, had recommended Aston's Quay as a suitable site, with the proviso that the elevation and materials should be to the requirements of the City Architect.

Do you want men to whisper to you— OR ABOUT YOU?

"You need a real perspiration check that can't wash off in your bath . . . can't fail you just when you want to be most alluring."

Dorothy Gray
Intimate adviser to millions of women

Here's a story with a heart-break in it. A beautiful girl bathed herself in delicately perfumed water. She dressed with the greatest care, she spent an hour over her make-up. She sprayed perfume on her hair, and behind her ears. As she had so tremulously anticipated, he came close to her, whispered to her. But suddenly his voice broke off. He drifted away. He whispered to others. The unforgivable, agonising insult. Have you guessed? She had not used a longlasting deodorant.

ODO-RO-NO LASTS AND LASTS

You must, to be safe, use ODO-RO-NO. It checks perspiration from 1-7 days (according to the type you buy). Even if you take a bath or forget to make a fresh application, Odo-ro-no still does its work, invisibly, certainly, safeguarding your fragrance.

ODO-RO-NO

Odo-ro-no LIQUID (in two strengths—Regular (lasts for 7 days) Instant (lasts for 3 days) 1/9 and 9d.

INCREASE IN HOME BAKING

More and more housewives are discovering that the secret of successful baking is—"right raising"—using the exact amount of "raising" each recipe requires, no more, no less.

And that Royal Baking Powder ensures by its perfectly balanced mixture and special ingredients a firm, even texture. It also makes cakes, puddings and pastries deliciously light and nourishing.

Next time you bake, use plain flour and 'Royal'—it protects your other ingredients and safeguards you against costly failures.

EXTRA USES FOR 'ROYAL'

1 'ROYAL' REPLACES EGGS.
In cakes calling for more than two eggs, fewer eggs may be used by substituting 1 teaspoonful of Royal Baking Powder for each egg omitted. Add 2 tablespoonfuls of liquid (water or milk) for each egg omitted.

2 SAVE MONEY WHEN BUYING 'ROYAL'
Royal Baking Powder keeps indefinitely. So why not buy in 8 or 16 oz. tins? It's cheaper too!

3 A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO SUCCESSFUL BAKING.
Send to-day for the Royal Cookery Book containing 48 pages of tested recipes and useful hints for successful baking. Write to:—Johnson Bros., Depts.E.5, Great Ship Street, Dublin.

Retreat from Glory

When the history of these dreadful times comes to be written, one of its most remarkable pages will concern itself with the withdrawal of the British and French forces from Flanders and Northern France. The retreat of the last few days has been infinitely harder and more hazardous than the retreat of the British Expeditionary Force from Mons in the autumn of 1914. In any circumstances, once the Germans had secured Abbeville and Boulogne, the British would have been able to extricate themselves from their exposed positions only with some difficulty; in consequence of the totally unexpected surrender of the Belgian army their task became almost impossible. Viscount Gort's comparatively small force was hemmed in on three sides. According to French reports, the Germans attacked in this sector with forty infantry divisions and eight armoured columns, comprising about 700,000 men, while there were only ten French and eight British divisions, totalling 270,000 men, against them. When the King of the Belgians ordered his army to give up the fight, Lord Gort's left flank was left, as it were, in mid-air. The road to Dunkirk was thrown open to the advancing Germans, who took the fullest advantage of their opportunities, and British and French alike were placed in an almost desperate position. Yet by all accounts they seem to have been making a magnificent stand against heavy odds. Not only have they been retreating towards the coast in good order and fighting constant rearguard actions; they actually have been attacking in order, apparently, to form a bridge-head, and thus to cover the embarkation of their comrades at Dunkirk. Already a substantial number of the British forces has been evacuated. All the wounded have been withdrawn, and large numbers of others have reached England during the last two or three days. Embarkation has been rendered even more difficult than it normally would have been as a result of Germany's intense activity in the air. The retreating troops have been bombed incessantly by Field-Marshal Goering's machines. The men have been unable to sleep, and those who have arrived in England tell of truly appalling experiences. Reports from German sources speak of exceptionally heavy damage that has been inflicted by the Luftwaffe on British naval units that have been assisting in the work of withdrawal; but the British Admiralty states definitely that only three destroyers—the Grafton, the Grenade and the Wakeful—together with some small auxiliary craft and one small transport of less than one thousand tons, have been sunk. The Germans also claim to have captured General Prioux, commander of the First French Army, who, they announce, was accompanied by a number of other French officers of high rank.

Not even their bitterest enemies can blame the British for the tragic events of the past days. The spirit of the Expeditionary Force is stated to be "beyond all praise"; and the Germans, who themselves are good fighters, admit that Lord Gort's little army has met their onslaughts with fierce resistance and desperate courage. The heavy German tanks undoubtedly did severe damage; but in no case was the British line broken, and its retreat to the coast was conducted with all the precision of a military parade. In the air honours seem to have been more or less even, when the numerical superiority of the Germans is taken into account. Pilot for pilot and machine for machine, the Royal Air Force appears to have the better of the duel; and the new Defiant machines undoubtedly have the measure of all their opponents. In two sorties yesterday one squadron of these aeroplanes destroyed thirty-five German machines without loss. The young British airmen have proved to be magnificent fighters; and, according to the British Ministry of Information, they accounted yesterday for more than seventy German machines. In a "total" war losses on both sides are bound to be abnormally heavy, and it stands to reason that the attackers must lose relatively more than the defenders. According to French estimates, the Germans have lost some two thousand aeroplanes since their invasion of the Low Countries. Even when one makes allowances for possible exaggerations—and it is utterly impossible to be precise in such matters—it is certain that the German Luftwaffe has lost a substantial proportion of its total effectives. Germany's enormous productive capacity may be able to make up for the loss in machines without undue difficulty, but the loss of their crews to a great extent is irreparable. Field-Marshal Goering has been attacking in the air with fierce abandon. Members of the British Expeditionary Force who have reached England have been telling of wave after wave of German bombers, fifty machines at a time, that have been hurling thousands of tons of bombs on the Allied armies. Time alone will tell whether or not the German Air Force will be able to maintain its offensive at this devastating rate. Its next objective probably will be England, and then will come the real test of its strength. It seems that hitherto the British Government has kept the vast majority of its fighters at home, anticipating an eventual attack on England. One gathers from Ministerial statements that thorough preparations have been made to repel invasion; but, after the crushing surprises of the last month, nobody can be sure of anything. The French have established a new line along the Somme and the Aisne. Their mighty forces are intact, and it looks as if General Weygand is waiting for the fury of the German attack to spend itself before he launches a counter-offensive in any strength. There can be no question of the moral of either the British or the French people. Both are ready for the worst that can befall them. Britain, in a sense, is far more vulnerable than France—there are eight million people in London who depend for their food supplies on the port—but the British Air Force already has shown its defensive, as well as its attacking, capabilities; and the people of England, who will bear the brunt of the German attack, never have lacked courage in times of trial.

A Good Example

Yesterday the Most Reverend Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford, declared open the Waterford Unemployed Workmen's Club, which has been founded on lines almost identical with those of Dublin's celebrated Mount Street Club. In fact, its designers have acted in such close collaboration with Major Waller and other leaders of the Dublin enterprise that it may be described as a younger brother. We are confident that its achievements among the unemployed workers of Waterford will be no smaller than the very notable achievements of the kindred body here in Dublin. Like the Mount Street Club, it will provide premises where men of virtually every trade can come and work. Doubtless, there will be a similar equitable arrangement by which the men will be enabled to exchange the work of their hands for goods produced by their fellows; and, as in Dublin, there is a farm attached, where workers will have an opportunity to grow at least a proportion of the food required for themselves and their families. It is no longer necessary to preach sermons on the benefits which such clubs confer on workless men. The Mount Street Club, which at the outset seemed too fantastic an ideal to have much hope of success, has succeeded even beyond the hopes of the idealists. We will elaborate no further than to say that throughout last year it was providing work and a livelihood for some 250 unemployed men, the bread winners of approximately a thousand people. Almost 124,000 meals were served; the farm produced some 4,000 gallons of milk, 1,500 lbs. of beef and bacon, and the club's entire requirements of potatoes; and in the workshops in Mount street 855 garments of various kinds were made, 2,290 pairs of shoes were repaired, and some 225 suits were mended and made fit for further use. The work speaks for itself. It provided food and clothing — produced independently and by their own efforts—for thousands of people who otherwise would have been destitute or dependent on "doles" or charity. As the Bishop of Waterford said yesterday: to leave any able-bodied man without occupation and dependent for his living upon public assistance, destroys self-respect, spirit, confidence and a man's pride. It is to maintain or restore those essential qualities that such enterprises as the Mount Street and the Waterford clubs came into being. One already has succeeded to the full extent of its ability; the other will succeed likewise. The need for such institutions as these never was greater than it is at the present time for unemployment, bad as it may be, is likely to become still worse before peace and prosperity return to Europe again.

"Slanguage"

Twenty years ago new editions of dictionaries contained many words which had obtained currency during the war, and history is repeating itself to-day. Already the soldiers of Great Britain have decided that the new battle dress is best described as "Belisha Bags," while searchlights have been re-named "Paul Prys," and the "Tin Hat" of the last war is now a "Battle Bowler." The R.A.F. has a special vocabulary of its own, but no information is available as to the manner in which the Navy is dealing with the linguistic needs of the moment—which, perhaps, only is to be expected from the "Silent Service." Slang, in the opinion of Mr. Eric Partridge, whose little book on the subject has been published by the Society for Pure English, "is the acme and quintessence of spoken and informal language." "Many slang words and phrases perish," says the invaluable Mr. Fowler, "a few establish themselves; in either case, during probation they are accounted unfit for literary use." We fear that the tempo of modern life has shortened very much the period during which the successful newcomers are forced to wear quotation marks—yesterday is "Auld lang syne," and the new slang sign is discarded to-morrow. Fortunately, it is again a case of the survival of the fittest, and the number admitted to the ranks of orthodoxy is comparatively small. In Ireland, on the whole, we deal in kindlier fashion with the English language than the English themselves, and seldom ask for the entry of a new word. Our best effort—in fact, our only really successful effort—was the invention of "Quiz," but during "the Troubles" we manufactured labels almost as readily as any soldier of to-day. Notable among our achievements was the application of the name "Black-and-Tans" to a section of the auxiliary police; for the appellation actually established itself in the archives of authority. It was a Limerick officer home on leave from the front, who, gazing with disfavour upon the new force's makeshift uniforms, partly khaki and partly the "invisible green" of the old R.I.C., remarked to a newspaper friend from his own town: "Wouldn't they remind you of the Scarteen Hounds—the Black-and-Tans?" Within a few minutes the title had been seized upon joyfully in the Evening Telegraph office, and in half-an-hour placards were being rushed through the streets by the newsboys announcing the arrival of the "Black-and-Tan Police." That brilliant young Irishman, Tom Kettle, who was killed at Guillemont, coined a phrase to describe the little Sinn Fein periodicals—"the Mosquito Press"—but Griffith said that it only showed how severely they were stinging the Irish Parliamentary Party. Mr. Thomas Atkins, for his part, compromised with the Irish language by calling his opponents "the Shinners," but history is silent as to who first called the area of many ambushes from Redmond's Hill to Kelly's Corner "the Dardanelles." Apparently periods of armed conflict are much more prolific in this sort of inventiveness than "the days of peace and slumberous calm"—a fact which may be regarded by pacificists as yet another powerful addition to their stock of arguments.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE SEA GRIP

The Times remarks to-day in an editorial article:—As one day follows another it grows more and more certain that in the supreme struggle of the French and British Armies, hemmed in against the North-Eastern Coast of France, the world is witnessing one of the grimmest and most glorious feats of skill and steady gallantry in all military history. It is not possible to follow the conflict in its heroic detail. The shrouded valour of the troops is the more stirring because it rests, and must rest, simply and selflessly upon duty and discipline, denied even such aid as millions of hearts at home are burning to lend with their testimony of pride and thanks. Yet, now and again, the pall of obscurity is lit with the gleam of individual fortitude and daring, as in the story of the defence and evacuation of Boulogne. As the great rearguard action has approached the sea, the three Services have come into play as one, and for all the story is the same. . . . It should never be forgotten that the real struggle is for dominion of the sea. The very magnitude of the effort which the Germans have exerted in the drive towards the Channel ports shows that they are under no illusions about the chief obstacle to their ambition of world domination—the sea power of the Allies, of which the backbone is the British Navy.

Nothing that has happened in the war so far, adds The Times, supports the theory that men-of-war can be driven from the sea by direct air attack. On the contrary, though the full force of German air power was exerted against the British in Norway, it was unable to prevent the British Navy from carrying out, with but slight losses, every duty demanded of it; and the tale has been the same in the ports of Holland, Belgium and Picardy. But the task is not light. . . . Sea power, with its citadel stoutly defended by the Navy, itself by the superb squadrons of the R.A.F., by a network of well-designed and well-manned ground defences, and—not the least important—supported by firm civilian determination, will not be shaken. And so long as it is maintained Britain and France must prevail in the end.

IRISH WILLS

Mrs. Georgina Armstrong, of 9 Sydenham road, Dundrum, Dublin, who died on February 1st last, left £2,704 in England.

Mr. John Ernest William Flood, C.M.G., of 10 Dryden Chambers, Oxford street, London, W., Crown Agent for the Colonies since 1938, who died on 9th April last, son of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel Flood, R.A.M.C., Gortmore House, Omagh, left estate of the gross value of £3,712.

Amy Hodgson Wrede, of 9 Winton road, Leeson Park, Dublin, who died on January 27th last, has left personal estate in England and Eire of the value of £3,551.

The Dardanelles.

British submarines continue to do serious damage in the Dardanelles. Within the last few days the submarine E 11, which has scored some remarkable feats already, entered the harbour of Constantinople, attacked several troop ships and supply vessels, and made its escape. Several cargo vessels were torpedoed.

According to messages received from Athens, the Turkish losses so far in the Dardanelles are about 60,000 killed and wounded, and the force at present in the peninsula is about 80,000.

Italians in Ireland.

An official notice in another column commands all male Italians of military age at present resident in Ireland to report at once to the Italian Consul. The notice is signed by the Italian Consul in Dublin, Lorenzo Salazar.

THATCHED ROOFS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—There is no need to enlarge on the merits of thatched roofs, whether for their efficiency or their beauty; but there is one kind of thatch which I have never seen in Ireland, but which, nevertheless possesses exceptional advantages, and for which the materials seem to exist in our country in abundance. I mean the reed thatches such as are commonly to be seen on barns, houses, and sometimes even on churches, in Norfolk and Suffolk, and which are not infrequently used by architects for week-end cottages and small country houses in other parts of England. The reeds are got from the Norfolk "broads," which is the name given to a system of large, shallow lakes in that county connected by water channels and abounding in reeds and water plants. Reed thatches are particularly handsome and durable. It is said that a roof will last for 70 years without repair, except for the ridge, which will need renewal sooner.

Our lakes and bogs produce many sorts of reeds in abundance, and all that seems necessary is to get over an instructor to explain the right sort of reeds to use and when and how they should be cut and dried; and also to teach the art of thatching with reeds, which differs somewhat from the methods followed when straw is used.

I wonder if any of our architects or builders would take this up, or one of our technical schools situated in a district where suitable reeds are to be found.—Yours, etc.,

H. F. McCLINTOCK.

LONDON LETTER

BACK TO THE TOMBS

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON.
THURSDAY NIGHT.

WITH the shadow of war hanging over it, the Egyptian Government is taking care of the priceless treasures collected from the tombs of the Pharaohs. Many of the mummies and other relics are very fragile, and it is proposed that they shall be transferred to the extensive tombs in the hard rock near Cairo. These tombs are 30 or 40 feet deep in the earth, and the air is extremely dry, a necessary condition for preserving the antiquities. Another problem said to be confronting the Egyptian authorities is the protection of the Sphinx against damage through air attacks. Up to fifteen years ago the Sphinx with the exception of its head, was sheltered by the sands of the desert, but the sand then was removed and the lion's body and the various buildings incorporated into it were uncovered. In the opinion of experts consulted by the Egyptian authorities, the best means of preservation would be to replace the sand.

Atlantic Fliers as Casualties

One of the names in the Royal Air Force casualty list is that of Flight-Lieutenant A. G. Store, the Atlantic record-breaking pilot. He was better known as Captain Gordon Store, of Imperial Airways, North Atlantic Division, and commander of the giant flying boat Cabot, in which he set up a new East to West record Atlantic crossing on September 23 last year by piloting the boat from Foynes to Botwood, Newfoundland, in thirteen hours. With him on that flight were Flying-Officer G H. Bowes and Engineer-Officer Albert Henry Dupe, both of whom have been wounded.

Land Work for Students

The British Ministry of Agriculture is making a big effort to induce university and college students to work on the land during the summer vacation. There is room for thousands of such men. At the time of the year when students usually take holidays the labour problem on farms becomes particularly acute. During the harvest season there is a great demand for unskilled labour, and this year opportunities for employment will be greater than ever. The campaign is directed particularly to men students of universities and colleges but it includes public schools such as Eton. An appeal is also made to women students to join the women's land army. Accommodation is to be provided for the workers, and the students in most cases will be able to live in properly-equipped barns or under canvas, while others will be accommodated in farmhouses.

Canadian Shipbuilding

Canada's programme for two years' shipbuilding, which is to include more than one hundred vessels for various naval and Air Force purposes, is well ahead of schedule. The construction of some of the larger ships is well advanced, and it is probable that they will be delivered this year. Work continues day and night at the shipyards along the coasts, and many shipyard employés have exerted themselves to speed construction work. The British Admiralty, for whom some of the ships are ordered, expresses gratification at the rapidity with which the work is progressing. Some four thousand men are engaged in it at present, but this number will be trebled in the near future.

Park Railings Disappear

London is dispensing freely with its park railings. In St. James's Park the railings round the lake are gone, while in Hyde Park those on both sides of Rotten Row and those on Constitution Hill are being removed. The railings enclosing the park from the outside world are not being removed, as it is considered necessary that the parks should be closed at night and that they should be subject to control at all times. In other parks iron railings are being removed from Battersea, Parliament Hill Fields and Waterlow Park, while those round open spaces in many of the streets of South London also are being uprooted.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Blue Devils

Occasionally the news from Norway mentions the Chasseurs Alpins, who also are known as the "Blue Devils," and are regarded as among the toughest troops in the world. That fact, and their navy blue uniforms, led the Germans in the last war to give them the nickname of which they now are so proud.

The war strength of the chasseurs is about 100 battalions. They are not divided into regiments, but operate in half-brigades, commanded by colonels. The chasseurs do not use military bands, but march with a short, snappy step to the accompaniment of a drum and trumpet corps.

One of their greatest feats in the last war was the recapture of the forbidding Monte Tomba, in Italy. They also fought in Alsace, the Vosges Mountains, at Verdun and the Somme.

Incidentally, General Gamelin was a chasseur.

The Bren Gun

Why is the famous Bren gun so called?

When asked this question I replied vaguely that I supposed it to have been invented by a man of the name of Bren. Then, seeing a pained look cross my interrogator's face, I changed my mind, and supposed that it had something to do with the town of Brno, in Czechoslovakia—what was!—and its big armament works.

That was, anyhow, half an answer.

It seems that the gun was invented at the Skoda works in Brno—the principal Skoda works, by the way, are in Pilsen, where the beer comes from—but later was modified by the British firm that manufact

ALLIES HOLDING FLANDERS FRONT

COVERING DUNKIRK WITHDRAWAL

Several B.E.F. Units Arrive in England

BRITAIN LOSES THREE DESTROYERS

BRITISH and French troops, fighting one of the greatest rear-guard actions in military history, held the Germans at most points of the Flanders front yesterday.

Despite greatly increased pressure from the Germans, reinforced by forty additional divisions—more than 1,000,000 men—and the whole of the armoured units of the Reich, the Allied troops have maintained their positions all along the Yser.

At other points they have carried out their withdrawal only slowly, disputing every yard of ground.

The famous "Flanders Hills" are being fiercely disputed. After taking the first—Mount Cassel—on Wednesday, the Germans are now attempting to gain possession of the others, to cut off the French troops, under General Prioux, from their way of retreat to the sea.

The official German News Agency states that General Prioux was taken prisoner at Stoernvorde, east of Cassel, yesterday. With him, the Agency adds, were many other high French officers.

This claim is not admitted by the Allies.

Falling back from the Lille region, and fighting fiercely, the Prioux army is slowly retiring in the direction of the entrenched camp of Dunkirk.

Dunkirk itself is holding out magnificently, says a London report. The inundations extending south-west and north-east of the entrenched camp are now effective, the water having risen owing to the opening of lock gates.

Aerial attacks on the port cost the Germans dear yesterday. The heavy toll taken by Allied aircraft and anti-aircraft defences is estimated in London at seventy-five 'planes, though official figures are not yet available.

TROOPS REACH BRITAIN

The great battle of the withdrawal from Northern France is raging on the coast, back to which the B.E.F. and the French were forced to fall yesterday by increased German pressure on both flanks.

Troops not immediately engaged in the fighting have been evacuated—the evacuation is still successfully proceeding—and numbers have already reached Britain.

Worn-out and battle-weary men of the B.E.F. last night were arriving in their thousands at a south coast port, while on the other side of the Channel their remaining comrades fought a terrific rearguard battle to hold Dunkirk and the coast until withdrawal is complete. Their French allies were with them.

Days' growths of beard upon their chins, eyes hollow from lack of sleep, and many of them still wet through from having to swim or wade to the transports, they sprawled exhausted in the countless trains which bore them North.

Equalling the gallantry of those who so bravely resisted the Germans on land was the steadfastness of the naval crews, who, dropping from exhaustion, had to be relieved on arrival in England.

Three British destroyers—Grafton, Grenade and Wakeful—together with certain small auxiliary craft and a small transport, have been lost in the withdrawal of the B.E.F., the British Admiralty announced last night.

"With spirit beyond all praise, in the face of fierce opposition, the wounded and a large number of other elements have already been safely withdrawn," it was added.

One small British force sent to hold Calais refused to surrender, and held out through days of continuous air and artillery bombardment. Their refusal to capitulate was of invaluable assistance to the main body in its withdrawal, the British War Office announced last night.

LAND BEING FLOODED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

Some of the B.E.F., who have been fighting in Belgium and Northern France, and who, according to the Ministry of Information, have already reached England, arrived back two days ago.

They have been withdrawn from Belgium with great difficulty, and were landed at a south-east coast port. Later further troops arrived, and the men, though some of them were tired after their grim experiences and lack of sleep, all appeared to be in good heart.

There was no spirit of dejection among them. They were the first to wave cheerfully to the crowds; yet all had been through an indescribable inferno

Some of the men had been in action since the invasion of the low countries. They told of terrific German losses in the battle for the Channel ports. They praised the undoubted superiority of the R.A.F.

All ranks emphasised that every member of the B.E.F. was still fighting with great courage and determination. When further men arrived it was noticed that a few had been slightly wounded.

On one ship there were four German prisoners. They were taken along the sea front in buses to a large restaurant, where food and drink were awaiting them.

The military authorities cleared the front, and placed armed guards at all approaches, while disembarkation was taking place.

People living in houses alongside the railways in some southern suburbs of London have been watching a stream of troop trains bringing men back yesterday. Train after train went down empty on south-east coast lines through the night, and returned full of weary-looking figures in khaki.

When one train was halted by signals at one south-east London junction a P.A. reporter talked with the returning soldiers.

RELAYS OF 'PLANES

Unshaven and unkempt they were, with uniforms much the worse for wear and minus any regimental markings, he writes. Many men on this particular train were too tired even to look from the carriage windows. Some did lear from the windows, as if to take in to the full the quiet atmosphere.

"Do you know where you are going?" I asked one. "We don't know. We just got into the train," they replied.

One soldier, with several days' growth of beard, said: "We've had a terrible time this last fortnight—swimming canals, nights without sleep and bombing attacks. Fifty or more German 'planes would come over and drop their bombs. Just as we were recovering over would come another fifty, and so on in relays."

On some trains yesterday the soldiers were waving cheerfully to passengers on platforms, and several outstretched hands indicated "thumbs up."

Weight of numbers had been a deciding factor. An N.C.O. who fought in the last war said: "I never saw anything like the barrage we put up to stem the advance. But the Germans advanced right into it, and as many seemed to come through it as went in. Their losses must have been enormous."

HOW EVACUATION WAS CARRIED OUT

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

PARIS, Thursday.

Fighting one of the greatest rearguard actions in the history of British arms, hemmed in on three sides by a force of nearly a million Germans, the British expeditionary force was sailing from Dunkirk to-night in a blaze of glory, leaving Flanders fields to flood and fire.

Allied warships accomplished prodigious feats, sending shells from their big guns into the Germans.

At the same time the British and French Navies put into successful operation a shuttle service through Dunkirk, unloading fresh war supplies to the fighting forces and evacuating the first contingents of departing troops.

The Allied rearguard, flinging every ounce of courage and endurance into one last stand while their comrades board ships for home, is still holding on in the flooded Yser region, but the invader continues his advance in the Cassel area, after taking Mount Cassel earlier to-day.

THREE TO ONE

French military authorities estimated that the Germans had hurled 40 infantry divisions and eight armoured columns—roughly, 700,000 men—into the fray against some ten French and eight British divisions, totalling only some 270,000 men.

The German Luftwaffe was powerless to prevent fierce shelling, bombing, and strafing of the Nazi field forces to relieve pressure on the B.E.F. and their French comrades, who were fighting down the ever-narrowing corridor to the sea.

Across the Allies' corridor to the sea, extending 40 miles north-west from Lille to Dunkirk, the Germans have thrust a light line, 12 miles north-east of Cassel, to Poperinghe.

General Prioux's extreme rearguard of tanks smashed hard at this line in order to keep the Allies' path open.

At the evening Press conference, the French War Ministry spokesman said that the Allies are still holding on to the Yser region, while the Germans continued to advance in the Cassel area.

About 75 enemy 'planes were shot down to-day, he said.

The spokesman said that the Germans, advancing from Cassel, threatened to isolate General Prioux's rearguard.

Earlier in the day the Associated Press quoted the French War Ministry spokesman as saying that the Germans had only made one advance, "perhaps" the capture of the 600 feet Mount Cassel, two miles from the City of Cassel, where French troops were bitterly contesting the furious German drive towards the Channel.

A Belgian Government spokesman in Paris said that seven groups of Belgians were still fighting with the Allies in Flanders, despite King Leopold's surrender.

The Allies flooded the Yser Canal region yesterday, and the British fought and held the eastern flank of this area against strong German attacks. French troops defended and held the other flank between St. Omer and Cassel.

The French spokesman repeated his estimate of 2,000 'planes lost by the Germans since the invasion of the Low Countries. Some military circles in Paris estimated this as half of the Germans' first line strength at the outbreak of war.

The French now hold a consolidated line along the Somme and Aisne, after reducing German salients and bridgeheads from St. Valery, on the southern side of the mouth of the Somme, all the way down to the eastern fortifications where the Maginot Line proper begins.

This front was all quiet yesterday.

Authorised sources in Paris said that there had not been a single surrender of French units fighting up the Flanders corridor.

FRENCH COMMUNIQUE

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

PARIS, Thursday.

To-night's official French communiqué states:—

"Our troops in the north, fighting incessantly and in good order, are energetically continuing the execution of the movements decided upon by the Command.

"Fighting is progressing favourably on the greater part of the Somme front.

"There is no change in the situation on the Aisne and on the Eastern front.

"A group of French infantry, commanded by Sergeant Guillet, shot down a Heinkel 'plane the day before yesterday and a Junker 'plane yesterday by machine gun fire."

19 SHIPS SUNK, SAY GERMANS

AIR ATTACKS OFF BELGIAN COAST

A special announcement by the German High Command which was read over the official German wireless yesterday claimed that strong units of the German Air Force on Wednesday evening attacked British warships and troop ships off the Belgian and French coasts, and sank three warships and sixteen transports.

The announcement stated: "In the afternoon and evening of May 29 strong units of two Air Force Corps, commanded by the Generals Grauert and von Richthofen, attacked British warships and troop transports which were to bring home the remainder of the beaten B.E.F., in the harbour and on the sea off Dunkirk and Ostend.

"All branches of the services joined in the attack, which was directed against more than 60 ships. Three warships and 16 transports, including some of over 15,000 tons, were sunk by intensive and concentric bombing attacks. Thirty-one more ships received direct hits and were heavily damaged. Some of them were immobilised and others set on fire.

"The sluices in Dunkirk harbour were completely destroyed and the harbour basin has been drained

"Our fighter 'planes, which, together with our bombers, attacked the enemy evacuation action, brought down 68 enemy aircraft. Ten more aircraft which protected the embarkation were brought down by our A.-A. artillery, which also sank a small warship and heavily damaged five other vessels by direct hits."—(P.A. War Special.)

THREE DESTROYERS LOST

OFFICIAL BRITISH STATEMENT

The following official British Admiralty communiqué was issued last night:—

"The Royal Navy has been, and is, giving all possible help and support to the British and French land forces which are operating in the vicinity of the French and Belgian coasts under heavy enemy pressure. Warships are giving supporting and covering fire to the troops, impeding the enemy's movements, and have inflicted considerable punishment upon the German advanced forces.

"The wounded and a large number of other elements have already been safely withdrawn. These operations are being conducted ceaselessly, day and night, with coolness and determination in the face of fierce opposition, particularly from the air.

"The German High Command has claimed to have inflicted very large losses upon naval units and the transports which they protect. As usual, these bear no relation to the facts.

"Operations of this nature cannot be carried out without losses. H.M. destroyers Grafton, Grenade and Wakeful, and certain small auxiliary craft have been lost. Next-of-kin of casualties are being informed as details become available.

"One small transport, the Abukir, of 689 tons, has been sunk.

"The spirit and conduct of all concerned are beyond all praise. The operations are proceeding."

The report of the chief officer of the fire brigade, submitted to the Belfast Police Committee yesterday, showed that during the past fortnight the brigade had responded to 15 calls of fire, and the ambulances to 138 calls.

PRESIDENT LEBRUN'S MESSAGE

M. Lebrun, President of the French Republic, on Wednesday addressed the following message to General Blanchard, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied troops in the North:—

"While the French troops under your orders, in full collaboration with the B.E.F. and with the help of the Allied Navies, are fighting a battle which will be placed in the foremost ranks of military history, I send them the grateful greetings of the country.

"All Frenchmen unite in expressing to you their warm admiration for the great courage and fierce energy of our soldiers, and the new glory with which they are adorning our flags."—Press Association War Special.

ITALY AND THE WAR'

HITLER SUMMONS GOEBBELS

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Friday.

According to trustworthy sources, Herr Hitler has summoned Dr. Goebbels, his Propaganda Minister, to the General Headquarters to "prepare a sensational announcement."

The informant expressed the opinion that the announcement concerned Italy's entry into the war.

It is understood that the agreement between Hitler and Mussolini was that Italy would enter the war only after Hitler had assured the Duce that the French Air Force was so demolished as no longer to constitute a threat to Italy's chief industries in the Po Valley.

On Wednesday night Mr. Raymond Gram Swing, the American wireless commentator, said that he had definite information that Italy had notified England and France that she would enter the war.

To-day an authoritative Italian source scoffed at the report, saying that it would be "exceedingly naive and ingenuous" to believe that Italy would thus betray her plans.

The Italian Cabinet will meet on June 4, when "various important" topics will be under consideration, says a "Times" telegram, quoted by Press Association. It is commonly conjectured that it will be concerned with the eventuality of Italian intervention in the war. The almost universal assumption is that intervention is certain during the next month, though different dates are foretold by various observers.

LATE NEWS

ALLIED FLEET SHOWS FIGHTING POWER

NIGHT MANŒUVRES OFF ALEXANDRIA

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ALEXANDRIA, Thursday.

Units of the British and French war fleets gave a new demonstration of their fighting power and their readiness for any eventualities in the Mediterranean by staging night manœuvres off Alexandria to-night.

Royal Air Force 'planes joined the exercises.

Other units of the fleet have been manœuvring day and night, keeping in top fighting trim, returning to port after several hours' battle practice.

BRITONS HELD UP AT ITALIAN FRONTIER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

British people who left Rome on Wednesday night and yesterday morning after being assured that no exit visa was required have been held at the frontier, because it was decided in the interval that a visa was required.

Reuter's Correspondent was informed on Wednesday by Police Headquarters that no visa was necessary for the British.

NO CIVIL FLYING OVER EIRE

TRANSPORT SERVICE EXEMPTED

An Order made by the Minister for Industry and Commerce prohibits the flying of civil aircraft over the State and territorial waters adjacent thereto, unless specially authorised by the Minister. It is intimated that only aircraft engaged in scheduled air transport will be granted exemption.

It is understood that no more than a dozen 'planes in Eire will be affected by the Order.

LORD F. CAMBRIDGE KILLED IN ACTION

COUSIN OF THE KING

Lord Frederick Cambridge, first cousin of the King, and heir to his brother, the Marquess of Cambridge, has been killed in action. Lord Frederick was reported missing a few days ago. The news of his death was announced in London yesterday. He had been serving with the British Expeditionary Force in France. The Marquess of Cambridge also is serving with the British Expeditionary Force. Lord Frederick, who was 32, was a nephew of Queen Mary, his father being her eldest brother. He was a Captain in the Coldstream Guards, and in 1936 went to Palestine with his regiment. When it was announced that the Duke of Kent was to become Governor-General of Australia, Lord Frederick was appointed one of his aides-de-camp. He was unmarried

The Belgian Cabinet meeting, held "Somewhere in France" to-day, decreed: As the King was "in power of the invader," it was impossible for him to reign.

THE POPE MAY SPEAK ON SUNDAY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

VATICAN CITY, Thursday.

The Pope is expected to make a speech when he receives the Cardinals on Sunday.

Glasgow "Fair" holidays are due to start on July 12, but the 700,000 workers who would have gone on vacation will remain on duty. This was officially stated yesterday. While there will be no Fair Week this year men on armament work will get periodic week-ends and arrangements have been made towards that end.

HEAVY TOLL IN THE AIR

77 German 'Planes Down

R.A.F.'s TOLL IN ONE DAY

THE British Air Ministry announces: "Throughout Wednesday the main effort of the Royal Air Force was concentrated on relieving the pressure on the flanks of the Allied Armies in Flanders. Our fighter aircraft, in a magnificent series of actions, repeatedly broke up formations of German fighters and bombers. Very severe losses were inflicted on the Germans.

"The latest reports show that at least seventy-seven German aircraft were destroyed by our fighters during the day. Meanwhile Royal Air Force medium bombers were attacking German transport columns and armoured fighting vehicles, and destroying bridges and machine emplacements. These operations continued all day. All our aircraft returned.

"One attacking Messerschmitt was shot down. Operations by heavy bombers followed during the night. Aircraft of the Coastal Command and of the Fleet air arm engaged in reconnaissance and bombing operations on the French and Belgian coasts shot down two enemy aircraft and damaged two others. Ten of these aircraft are missing, but the crews of at least three have been rescued.

"Fuller reports have now been received of operations which took place on Monday in the Sedan area. Medium bomber aircraft of the R.A.F., operating from France, attacked a number of enemy aerodromes, causing extensive fires in the hangars and surrounding buildings. They also successfully bombed supply dépots and a train. All our aircraft returned.

"On the same day our fighters on offensive patrol in this sector shot down 11 enemy aircraft and damaged three more. It was on this occasion that one of our auxiliary fighter squadrons engaged a formation of 24 enemy bombers, escorted by 20 fighters, and shot down nine bombers and one fighter without loss to themselves. In the Narvik area on the 27th and 28th May 13 enemy aircraft were destroyed by our fighters."

THE TWELFTH OF JULY

NO DEMONSTRATIONS IN THE NORTH

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

At a meeting of the County Grand Orange Lodge in Belfast to-night, under the presidency of Sir Joseph Davison, it was decided, in view of the present situation of the country, not to hold the annual Twelfth of July demonstrations this year. The usual church Services will be held on the Sunday preceding the twelfth. As the Independent Orange Order also has decided to abandon the function, there will be no organised demonstrations in the North on the coming "Twelfth."

BRITISH EMERGENCY MEASURES

POWER TO SUPPRESS NEWSPAPERS

A new British Emergency Powers (Defence) Regulation issued yesterday gives the Home Secretary power to suppress any newspaper that systematically publishes matter which, in his opinion, is calculated to foment opposition to the prosecution of the war.

The new regulation also gives the Home Secretary power to deal with printing presses used in the production of such newspapers.

Uniforms, signalling apparatus and wireless sets in cars are among other matters dealt with by the new Order.

It is laid down that no person shall supply to, or make for, any unauthorised person any naval, military, air force, police, fire brigade, auxiliary fire service, or other official uniform, whether British or foreign, or any official badge or emblem.

The supply of any uniform, badge or emblem so nearly resembling the official forms as to be calculated to deceive also is prohibited.

CONFERENCE ON DEFENCE

The following statement was issued last night by the Government Information Bureau:—

"The first conference on defence matters was held to-day at Leinster House. There were present: The Ministers for the Co-ordination of Defensive Measures, the Minister for Justice, the Minister for Defence, Deputy Dillon, Deputy Mulcahy, Deputy Dr. O'Higgins, Deputy Norton, and Deputy Corvin. The discussion lasted from 4 p.m. to 6.40 p.m., and will be resumed at 4 p.m. on Wednesday next, June 5th."

POLLING IN WEST GALWAY BY-ELECTION

ESTIMATED AS LOWEST ON RECORD

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

GALWAY, Thursday.

Indications of the polling in the West Galway by-election to-day were that it was the lowest on record—less than 50 per cent.

It is anticipated that the seat will be won by the Fianna Fail candidate, Mr. J. J. Keane, by a majority of about 2 to 1. In Galway City the poll was only about 58 per cent., and the highest percentage poll was at Ballinacourty, where 75 per cent. of the electorate voted. The boxes from Aran Islands were taken by a special boat, which is expected to arrive at 3.30 to-morrow morning. The count, under the supervision of Mr. J. Sarsfield, Returning Officer, will begin at 10 a.m. and the result is expected at about 7 p.m.

In the last election the poll was about 65 per cent., and the first preference votes received were:—Fianna Fail 19,594, Fine Gael 5,975, Labour 2,046. The number on the register is 43,160.

EIRE MAY EXPECT SHORT SUPPLIES

Difficulties Caused by War Will Grow

MR. LEMASS REVIEWS THE POSITION

MR. LEMASS (Minister for Supplies) made a statement, in the Dail last night, in connection with the maintenance of supplies to this country from Great Britain and other countries during the war.

He warned the people that shortages may be expected; that the difficulties would grow as the field of war extended, and suggested that planning for future requirements required the most complete co-operation between the Department of Supplies, producers, wholesalers and other importers in estimating their requirements.

Reviewing the country's stock of essential commodities, he said that the total stock on hand of wheat in April was equivalent to twenty-two weeks' supply, but home production was being stimulated. He could not promise that the present position as regards tea supplies would be maintained, and said that the future position of coal will be materially worse.

He held out no hope of increased allowances of petrol, and, as regards timber, said that the country would have to depend mainly on Canada.

"COMMODITIES NOT ON TAP"

Introducing an estimate for £6,583 for the office of the Minister for Supplies, Mr. S. LEMASS said that exports and imports had been controlled to ensure adequate supplies for this country. In connection with the maintenance of supplies action had been taken with the various British Government Departments to reduce to a minimum the interference with the flow of goods which would be caused otherwise owing to the operation of the licensing system introduced in the United Kingdom, which was the main source of supply of a wide range of essential commodities required in this country.

Mr. Lemass stressed that shortages might be expected, some of which would be likely to continue in existence for the entire duration of the war. The difficulties would grow as the field of competent activity extended, and while every effort would be made to meet them it had to be anticipated that they would not be entirely overcome. Many commodities were not now on tap as ordinarily they were in times of peace, and if supply difficulties inseparable from war were to be tackled with any hope of their being successfully alleviated it was essential that a programme of future requirements should be prepared. The advanced planning must cover the longest possible period ahead, and it required that there should be the most complete co-operation with the Department of Supplies by producers, wholesalers, and other importers in estimating requirements.

SURPLUS WOOL FOR BRITAIN

There was under consideration a scheme for the sale of our entire exportable surplus of wool to the United Kingdom Wool Controller. Before the war about 60 or 70 per cent. of our wool exports went to the United Kingdom, but only about 10 per cent. of our exports went to them in the six months from September onwards. In that six months' period the bulk was sold in the Low Countries or the United States of America. It was intended to use the prices branch of the Department of Supplies to ensure that a fair return for the wool would be obtained by farmers and producers. A special arrangement had also been applied in the restriction of the export of waste paper and rags, after consultation with paper manufacturers and the waste paper and rag merchants.

Among the goods, export of which had been prohibited, and for which no export licences had been granted, was maize. Until recently there had been a substantial illegal export of maize over the land frontier. That traffic had now ceased, or at least had been reduced to insignificant proportions.

CONCESSION TO EIRE

The United Kingdom Government had prohibited the importation, save under licences, of wide ranges of goods, and in order to facilitate the normal trade of this country with them they had issued in our favour an open licence, under which goods consigned from this country, save a relatively small number, were admitted without special licences. That concession was clearly of material advantage to this country, and it was very important that the benefits of it should not be withdrawn or curtailed by abuse on the part of British importers in having goods prohibited from direct entry to the United Kingdom consigned to them from abroad through this country.

Several attempts to evade the British restrictions in that matter had been discovered and anticipated, and to defeat these attempts restrictions had been applied under our control order on baskets, crates, patent elastic, glass and glassware. There were a very large number of commodities in respect of which difficulties of supply had arisen or had been anticipated, and in relation to which action had been taken by the Department.

WHEAT SUPPLIES

Up to the present supplies of imported wheat had been maintained at normal levels. The total stock in the country, including the special reserve established before the war, was, on April 30th, 151,000 tons, or approximately fifteen weeks' supply. In addition on that date a number of forward purchases had been made. Taking these into account, the position on April 30th was that the total stock in hand or in sight was 218,000, or the equivalent of twenty-two weeks' supply.

It was anticipated that the arrangements for buying and shipping wheat which had been made would be reasonably sufficient as a safeguard for the continuity of supplies from abroad, but it depended on the future course of the war and any development that further impeded shipping would increase the risks to be faced. To meet these risks home production of wheat was being stimulated. It was anticipated that the wheat crop of this year would yield approximately 45 per cent. of our total annual requirements of wheat. Last year's figure was 35 per cent. It was possible that the crop would be larger even than 45 per cent.

MAIZE STOCKS

Notwithstanding war conditions, the public were still getting very high class flour. Maize stocks held on April 30th was estimated at 27,000 tons, or about four weeks' supply. Forward purchases since landed amounted to an additional 22,000 tons.

They had been able to maintain reasonable supplies of animal feeding-stuffs.

TEA AND SUGAR

Supplies of tea had also been available up to the present, but he could not promise that that position would be maintained. In the middle of May there was sufficient supplies of sugar in the country to last thirty weeks. Arrangements were being made for the purchase of further supplies, which would be brought in mainly in the form of raw sugar. It was expected that during the current season the total area sown with beet would exceed 60,000 acres, and that with normal conditions as to yield that acreage should yield sugar in excess of 90,000 tons. It was not anticipated there would be any difficulty in making suitable arrangements to provide whatever additional quantities would be necessary to meet full requirements in the coming year.

Mr. McMENAMIN intervened to suggest that as all our tea was imported through London, some provision should be made to meet possible developments.

The MINISTER replied that such developments would be met when they arose.

SUPERPHOSPHATES

Continuing, the Minister said that approximately 85 per cent. of the normal requirements of superphosphate had been made available from home sources. Some quantities had been imported, and recent developments in the war had cut off those sources of supply. Alternative arrangements had been made whereby the Irish Sugar Company would be enabled to secure sufficient supplies to meet the requirements of the whole beet crop.

In regard to the prospects of getting raw materials for the manufacture of fertilisers, it was anticipated that difficulty would be experienced in regard to shipping, and every effort would be made to overcome it. They expected to get supplies from North Africa.

COAL IMPORTS AND PRICES

Speaking of the situation in regard to coal, the Minister said that there was a wide deferential between the price on the British internal market and the export figure, and early this year the Central Council of Colliery Owners represented that a margin which in some instances exceeded four shillings a ton, would make it impossible to maintain supplies to this country, particularly having regard to the growing demand for British coal. With a view to ensuring that supplies would not be cut off almost entirely, a proposed schedule had been agreed, which, generally, meant an advance of 2s. 6d. a ton on existing prices, with the exception of South Wales, where for large-sized industrial coal the increase would be 4s. 4d. per ton, and 3s. per ton for other industrial coal in that area. The normal summer reductions for house coal had been discontinued.

"Apart from a period of temporary dislocation which followed the severe weather conditions in January of this year, the supplies of coal have heretofore been coming in in quantities adequate to meet demands. The position for the future will, however, be materially worse, and it is expected that from now onwards deliveries of coal from Great Britain to this country will be substantially below the amount required to meet our demands. That position arises from the fact that more coal is required by Britain for her war effort.

SMALLER SUPPLIES

"It has been indicated to us that every effort will be made to maintain supplies to this country at as high a level as possible, but it is understood that in fact not more than about 80 per cent. of our requirements will be provided. Steps to meet the new situation are being taken urgently, and deliveries for domestic consumption will have to be restricted. That restriction, we trust, will be accompanied by measures intended to relieve any undue hardship on the poor. It is intended, as far as possible, to maintain the supplies for industrial and similar purposes, so as to prevent any increase in unemployment."

The Minister reviewed the situation with regard to petrol supplies and rations, and made it clear that he could hold out no hope that an increase in the allowance could be granted, and that if a private motorist used his three months' supply in one month he could not expect additional allowance. He warned those who were selling petrol without coupons that their supplies would not be replenished.

The Minister added that there had been no substantial reduction in the number of any type of motor car registered this year.

WOOLLEN AND WORSTED YARNS

On the situation in regard to woollen and worsted yarns, the Minister said that difficulty had been experienced in getting tops, yarns, and raw wool, owing to the control applied by the British Government. The supplies of higher quality yarns had not been curtailed so severely as those of the lower qualities. It had been agreed with Britain that marino tops and raw wool would be allocated in quantities which bore the same ratio to other countries in the United Kingdom of civil trade in those countries.

Two million pounds of marino tops and seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds of raw wool had been allocated to us, and efforts were being made to increase those amounts.

TIMBER AND METALS

In regard to timber, the Minister said that the country would have to depend mainly on supplies from Canada, and arrangements were being made which were expected to meet the reduced demand. The position also would probably be relieved by the substitution of other materials in building construction. The intensification of the war effort reflected itself in rigid restriction of essential metals, and they would have to face up to the increasing difficulty of getting them from United Kingdom sources.

Commenting on the control of prices, he said that profit margins were being limited to peace time proportions, and the aim was to restrict price increases to the recovery of unavoidable increases in costs, every effort being made to see that new costs, like increased wages, are not passed on to the consumer. Price investigations had been carried out in some forty provincial cities and towns, and the number of complaints had diminished considerably.

THE PRICES COMMISSION

Mr. H. M. DOCKRELL (F.G., Dublin County) moved that the vote be referred back, and gave as his reason for doing so that he had had difficulty in tracing what Minister had responsibility for the Prices Commission. The whole amount for the Prices Commission ought to be put on the vote for the Minister for Supplies.

The Prices Commission had a procedure in negotiating with manufacturers which he thought was rather unjust to other sections of trade. The question of prices was reviewed with the manufacturer and the distributor was left without any redress and not consulted in any way. That might be quite fair if an absolute monopoly in certain industries had not been handed over to certain manufacturers. The Minister should see that there was fair play between all sections of the community and that everyone got a square deal. It should not be the case that a manufacturer was handed an absolute monopoly and his treatment of the other sections of the trade not be subject to review.

PAPER STOCKS

Mr. BENSON (F.G., Dublin Townships) asked the Minister to give them some indication as to their position with regard to paper supples. There was no pulp-making plant in this country and all their pulp had to be imported. That meant they had to get it from Canada or elsewhere. He would like some information on the matter because he was afraid they were all living in a fool's paradise in that regard. They were consuming paper at the same rate as in normal times, and he was afraid their supplies were getting low and could not be replenished. The same remark applied to newsprint. Irish newspapers had been drastically reduced in size, whereas the cut in papers in other country had been of a very minor nature.

HIGH COMMODITY PRICES

Mr. J. HURLEY (Lab., Cork S.E.) said that the number of complaints about high prices of commodities had decreased only because people found a great deal of trouble in getting the Prices Commission to have their complaints investigated. He suggested that they should have local control committees throughout the country, which would forward all complaints from districts to the Prices Commission. He termed it "outrageous" that Irish-produced cabbage was sold at home at exorbitant prices. Cabbage exported from this country, he was informed, was being sold in London at 4d. per head. Here it was costing people very much more.

Would supplies be available for normal building requirements or for restricted building only? There was a fear in certain districts that if building works were begun they would have to be left unfinished because of a scarcity of essential materials.

MR. LEMASS'S REPLY

THE COUNTRY'S PAPER SUPPLIES

Mr. LEMASS, Minister for Supplies, replying, said that if there was any danger of prices being fixed for manufacturers and for retail sale, which did not take into full account the circumstances of the retail distributors he would give the matter his personal attention. There was no animosity to retail distributors; much less a desire to effect a reduction of prices or avoid a rise in prices at their expense. The objective of the Prices Commission was to deal fairly with all interests, and if in some cases the margin allowed to retail distributors had been cut, as had been done, it had only been when the Prices Commission considered that such action was, in all the circumstances, justified.

As regards supplies of paper, he could assure the House in a general way that there was no need for concern so far as the classes of paper imported from Great Britain were concerned. They were an export market for the purpose of the British regulations, and, consequently, the restrictions which they were imposing on the internal consumption of paper for special purposes did not apply to this country.

NEWSPRINT STOCKS

Their supplies of newsprint were reasonably satisfactory. Ordinarily some fifty or sixty per cent. of this paper came from Canada, and the balance from the Baltic. It was not correct to say that they had taken no action to economise in the use of newsprint. They had done so by voluntary arrangement with the newspapers, under which a reduction in the total tonnage used had already been effected. A further reduction would come into operation in the near future, and another reduction at the end of June. They preferred to do this by getting a voluntary reduction than to achieve it by making regulations concerning the size of papers or in some other way. If, of course, they did not get the reduction by voluntary action they would proceed by Order.

Deputies would appreciate that this voluntary arrangement gave newspaper proprietors a certain amount of liberty of action. They could economise by cutting the size of their papers, by reducing their circulation, or by having a larger paper one day than the other.

WRAPPING PAPERS

The position in regard to their supplies of cardboard had been affected by the invasion of Holland. They had, however, about a year's normal supply in stock, and the problem in relation to cardboard would not arise immediately. In regard to wrapping and kraft papers the constituents required for their manufacture were wood pulp, waste paper and rags. They had a fairly good supply of wood pulp, but the percentage used in the manufacture could be varied so as to spread the wood pulp stock over as long a period as possible.

They had had considerable difficulty in maintaining supplies of certain animal and other fats, but their existing arrangements were working satisfactorily, and he thought that users of these fats were now being supplied in sufficient quantities to enable them to maintain full production. He did not suggest that difficulties would not arise again, but at the moment they had been overcome.

While there had been some difficulty in the beginning, the position, as they understood it now in regard to starch, was normal, and they did not anticipate that difficulties were likely to arise in the immediate future.

The general problem of securing the collection of waste materials for use as industrial raw materials was under examination, as was the problem of economising in the use of materials which might become scarce.

ANIMAL FEEDING-STUFFS

So far as animal feeding-stuffs and a large number of fertilisers were concerned, not merely was the supply position easy, but easier than ever it was. Denmark and Belgium were importers of these materials on a far greater scale. They could not import now, and the supplies they would ordinarily get were available for purchase. The only difficulty in getting them in here was shipping. They had to depend on neutral shipping for the transport of their supplies, but, unfortunately, the number of neutrals had shrunk very rapidly. Their difficulties with regard to shipping were not likely to diminish, but on the contrary were likely to increase.

He could not give an assurance that supplies of building materials to support the normal programme would be available. No substantial difficulty had been experienced regarding these materials other than steel. So far as timber was concerned there were ample stocks in the country, and as regards other building materials they were either producing them here in sufficient quantities or otherwise they had no difficulty yet in getting supplies, or they had existing stocks to carry on for the present.

The motion to refer back was, by leave, withdrawn, and the estimate was agreed to.

EFFECTS OF THE SURRENDER

WHAT WEYGAND HAD TO DO

SOME ALTERNATIVES CONSIDERED

FROM OUR MILITARY CORRESPONDENT.

THE battlefield is no place for a King, unless he is also his country's best general. This, of course, can quite well happen—e.g., Gustavus Adolphus, John Sobieski, Frederick the Great, Napoleon—to mention only fairly modern instances. If this condition does not obtain, the presence of the King is merely an embarrassment—even when he is a hero, like James IV. The situation is worse when the King commands only one of a number of allied armies. What the consequences can be we have just seen in the capitulation of the Belgian Army. This deprived the Allied front of some 300,000 combatants on a vital sector, "at a time when the Allied armies were in a difficult, although not desperate position." The implication is that the position has now, in consequence, become actually desperate.

AN EXAMPLE

It will help to clarify the matter if we suppose that, instead of the Belgian King, it was another subordinate Allied Army commander that took upon himself to capitulate independently. Suppose, for instance, that Lord Gort decided that the entire B.E.F. was to lay down its arms; or that General Prioux arranged the mass-surrender of the separate French Army entrusted to his charge. It can be confidently asserted that, in either case, the apologists would have been few and far between.

The sequence of events was as follows:—On the night of May 14th-15th the front of the French 9th Army was broken through widely along the Meuse, entailing the withdrawal of all the Allied forces northward of that. Six days later the break-through was exploited and definitely registered, when advanced motorised German detachments reached—among other points—Abbeville, at the mouth of the Somme. Thereafter General Blanchard's entire left wing group of Allied armies was definitely isolated from the rest of the disposition, and consequently in serious danger.

TWO WAYS

There were two ways in which the situation might conceivably be restored. Either the broken front might be joined together again, as had happened in March, 1918, or the isolated left wing might succeed in establishing a bridgehead of a strategical kind, comprising the western fraction of Belgium and the northern fraction of France, and covering the Channel coast from anything but hostile air action. The act of the Belgian King rendered even the less of these remedies practically impossible of application.

WEYGAND'S METHOD

It is very easy to criticise adversely the method adopted by General Weygand to deal with the general situation as far as concerned the handling of the main bulk of the French Armies, which remained intact on the southern flank of the "bulge" made by the German break-through. A calm analysis, however, will easily satisfy everybody that he did the only sensible thing to do—having regard to all the circumstances. To have adopted any other course would simply have been, so to say, to throw good money after bad.

Weygand's first care had, essentially, to be that things got no worse: that what still remained intact should continue so. To do this, the first requirement was to stabilise a defensive front along the southern flank of the German bulge. The courses of the Rivers Aisne and Somme afforded a good prospect of doing this: both were formidable anti-tank barriers, and it was the mass-employment of tanks that had done the damage.

THE GERMAN STRENGTH

Weygand had to remember—what many people either did not realise or had forgotten—that most of the German strength had not yet been engaged at all. True, it was reasonable to conclude that the remaining quality was not quite so good. And, so far, the Germans had shown no capacity to storm really well-defended works, in the 1914 manner. All the same, he could take no chances. Even if he had several hundred thousand good troops left over, the problem was always—how could they be best employed? Evidently, to be at all employed, they must continue to exist.

ROLE OF MACHINE-GUNNERS

It thus boils down, on a larger scale, to the rôle of the infantry machine-gunner in a defensive capacity. He, a picked man, is aware that so long as he stays alive and can be supplied, no harm can occur on his part of the line. The same thing applies to artillery, trench mortars, etc.—in short, to everybody helping the machine-gunner to hold the ground. The only new factor is to enable "your man" to be safe from tanks.

There is no use firing at a good, modern tank with a small-calibre pea-shooter. The whole idea of "Blitz Krieg" was to disorganise the machine-gunner. The obvious counter-measure is to reinstate the machine-gunner. Only men on foot—or similar men who have got off the back of a horse—can occupy and hold ground everywhere. Of course, the new sort of attacker may have descended himself from an A.F.V. instead of a horse. The only difference in the antidote is to deal with the A.F.V. Therefore, an equipment is needed to deal with A.F.V.'s. It is hardly conceivable that Guderian could have acquired a greater ascendancy over his opposite numbers than did Murat 100 years ago—and Murat finished on the losing side.

There was a remark of an officer at field exercises in Ireland several years ago: "Hold off the —— tanks, and I'll arrange about everything else. The "proceedings" were not promulgated—or, at least, not read. Certainly, they were never assimilated.

NEW UNEMPLOYED MEN'S CLUB

OPENED BY THE BISHOP OF WATERFORD

At the opening of the Waterford Workmen's Unemployed Club yesterday afternoon, the Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop, said that unemployment was undoubtedly one of their biggest and most difficult social problems. Doles could only mitigate it.

To leave any able-bodied man, said the Bishop, without an occupation and dependant entirely for his living upon public assistance, destroyed his manly self-respect, spirit, confidence and dignity. A plan to provide a complete and satisfactory remedy for unemployment generally throughout the country had so far eluded their rulers and economists. So far the results of the club in Waterford were very satisfactory. Seventy-five men had already found partial employment in the club, and in addition the material comforts of their families had been increased. There used to be a belief that this country was richly endowed in minerals, and that it needed only the fostering care of a native Government to make this a great industrial manufacturing country. That belief had been greatly dissipated by the light of cold facts. It was only by applying old and well-tried principles, and by fostering in their people love for agricultural pursuits, could they hope to obtain results which were such an important factor for contentment and happiness.

Addresses were delivered by E. A. Gibbon; J. J. Newcome, Secretary, Mount Street Club, Dublin; P. J. Maguire, Chairman, Mount Street Club Members Committee, and R. W. Archer, Governor, ditto.

DEFENCE FORCES FOR THE NORTH

"B" SPECIALS' STRENGTH TO BE DOUBLED

LIAISON BETWEEN CIVIL AND MILITARY AUTHORITIES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

The plans for the formation of the new Defence Volunteer Force in Northern Ireland are now complete. A force of approximately thirty thousand men is being organised by doubling the present strength of the armed "B" Special Constabulary.

In the event of the arrival of hostile forces, either by parachute or by any other means, the new Defence Force will come under the command of the Military Commander in each area, and co-operate with the military in Northern Ireland.

The Northern Ireland Government have appointed Major-General Sir James Cooke-Collis, K.B.E., C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., who has been Northern Ireland representative in London, as Chief Organiser of all forms of Civil Defence in Northern Ireland, and as Liaison Officer, under the directions of the Prime Minister, between the civil administration and the military authorities. This arrangement will not affect the Constabulary forces, including the new Ulster Defence Volunteer section, which will be controlled by the Inspector-General, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Charles Wickham, D.S.O., in conjunction with the General Officer commanding the military in Northern Ireland and his staff, when engaged in home defence operations.

Major-General Sir James Cooke-Collis will arrive in Belfast from London to-morrow to take up his new duties.

DOUBLING STRENGTH OF "B" SPECIALS

Orders for doubling the strength of the "B" Special Constabulary have already been issued in all areas, except Belfast and Derry City, for which special arrangements are being made. The smallest unit—at present thirty—will be brought up to sixty, and the decentralised method of local recruiting is expected to bring the new Defence Force up to full strength in a few days. In the meantime, the "B" Specials are continuing their day and night patrolling of the Ulster countryside. All the men of the new Volunteer Defence section are to be provided with Dingham uniforms, cut in battle-dress pattern, to wear over their ordinary clothes. Forage caps will also be supplied. The necessary quantity of cloth has been acquired, and, when dyed a suitable colour, will be turned into uniforms in Belfast as quickly as possible.

DEFENCE OF UTILITY CONCERNS

In Belfast, Derry, and other large centres where there are public utility concerns, the defence of these in the first instance will be undertaken by members of the Staff, who are to be enrolled in the new Defence Force. The battalion of "B" Special Constabulary in Derry is to be increased by two companies, consisting of 260 men. Arms and ammunition for the new Defence Volunteers have been distributed to the various units.

Lieutenant-Colonel A. R. G. Gordon, Financial Secretary to the Northern Ireland Ministry of Finance, has been appointed Staff Officer at the Constabulary headquarters in Belfast to assist in the formation and administration of the new Volunteer Defence Force.

Some misconceptions have been expressed regarding the status of the Constabulary forces when used for the purpose of resisting armed invasion of Northern Ireland.

I am authoritatively informed that since the Prime Minister made his statement in the Northern Parliament on Tuesday last, written confirmation of the verbal arrangements upon which his statement was based has been received from the War Office.

THE WAR

GERMAN CLAIMS DENIED

IMPORTANCE OF PLAN FOR FLOODING

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

According to the French Admiralty, the number of Allied ships damaged or sunk by German air attack off Dunkirk is relatively very small. Regarding German claims on this subject, a spokesman of the French High Command last night said: "To-day's German communiqué is full of serious misstatements."

The French Admiralty, he added, are preparing a detailed report for publication. In the meantime, he said, it can be revealed that, compared with the number of ships taking part in operations off Dunkirk during the past few days, Allied losses are "insignificant."

The facts, he concluded, emphatically deny the truth of the German theory of the superiority of aircraft over warships.

Commenting on the flooding of regions around Dunkirk, French military circles last night said that several days must elapse before such action becomes effective. The water, it was explained, must have time to soak well into the soil before it can become a barrier to tanks, as well as to infantry. This has now been accomplished. The whole of the area to the south-west of Dunkirk, from the neighbourhood of Gravelines almost to St. Omer, has reverted to the huge marsh it was some twenty centuries ago, when it held up a Cæsar's legions. To the north-east the water line stretches from Nieuport to Ypres, along the valley of the Yser, over a width of between two and three miles.

GERMAN TRIBUTE TO B.E.F.

BERLIN, Thursday.

"The victory of Flanders has exacted severe sacrifices from the German Army," states a military commentator, quoted by the official German News Agency to-night.

He also spoke of the "desperate personal courage" of the men of the B.E.F., called on to face a "terrible offensive by land and air."—P.A. War Special.

GALLANT DEFENCE OF CALAIS

OFFICIAL TRIBUTE TO BRITISH FORCE

The following announcement was made by the British War Office last night:—

"Last week a small British force was sent to hold Calais, and to attempt to maintain communication with the B.E.F. Finding itself unable to carry out the latter task, in face of strong enemy mechanised forces, it concentrated on the defence of Calais. In spite of repeated attacks by the enemy, and of continuous air and artillery bombardment, the garrison held out for several days. By its refusal to surrender it contained a large number of the enemy, and was of invaluable assistance to the main body of the B.E.F. in its withdrawal on Dunkirk.

"This action will count among the most heroic deeds in the annals of the British Army."

BELGIANS STILL FIGHTING

A number of Belgian officers have refused to lay down their arms, in spite of King Leopold's orders, and the troops under them are still fighting side by side with the British and French in Flanders, it was announced last night by the Belgian radio announcer, broadcasting from France.

MOBILISATION OF THE UNEMPLOYED

SUGGESTED AT CORK MEETING

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

No matter what the fate of other people might be or how radically the consequences of war might affect them when it came to an end, their present job was to carry on and await the future with stoicism, said Mr. J. J. Walsh, president of the Federation of Irish Manufacturers, Ltd., at a meeting of the Munster section, held to-day in the Chamber of Commerce, Cork.

In the situation as it presents itself to-day, said Mr. Walsh, there is no room for complacency. No matter how the conflict will shape, it seemed reasonably certain that the comparatively even tenor of recent times would undergo more than a mere passing change.

It was rumoured that there might be in the near future a serious curtailment in the importation of coal, a shortage of which would paralyse industrial equipment. The Government must mobilise at least the single unemployed men, and see to it that the ample peat and anthracite resources were developed.

The President suggested also that some thousands of unemployed could be engaged in afforestation and drainage, even if it entailed further taxation. Money thus circulated would increase spending power and extract wealth from the land, which was the only source of wealth they possessed.

Now that industries were stabilised, they could co-operate with the farming community, for a prosperous agriculture was as vital to the welfare of industry as was prosperous industry essential to agriculture.

In view of what might happen to currencies after the war, said Mr. Walsh, the adverse trade balance showed an alarming state of affairs. To maintain their position in the European family, a government, no matter what form it might take, must keep a tight grip on the reins.

AN IRISH MERCANTILE MARINE

A resolution urging the Government to promote the establishment of an "Irish Mercantile Marine" to counter difficulties regarding imported supplies was adopted.

The development of trade with the American Continent was urged to obtain alternative sources for imports at present cut off through war conditions.

The branch also decided to request the Government to introduce a State war risk insurance plan.

PAUL EGESTORFF'S PICTURES

EXHIBITION AT VICTOR WADDINGTON GALLERY

Paul Egestorff, the water-colourist, has resided a considerable time in County Dublin, and has used his brush freely to depict scenes of city and countryside, exhibiting each year at the Academy. At length he has ventured to hold a first one-man show. It was begun yesterday at the Victor Waddington Gallery, South Anne street, Dublin, where thirty-two of Mr. Egestorff's works are now on view.

The exhibition declares that Mr. Egestorff has worked near and far from his habitat, and that he is familiar with the countryside, south, north and west. Wherever a colourful prospect has, in his imagination, appeared picturesque there this artist has delighted to delay until he had woven a composition of light and shade, and colour and form, in the free, broad manner that characterises all his picture-making.

The artist is enamoured of tree life. Many and various descriptions of its nature are shown, notably No. 14, "Trees in Co. Longford," is a handsome instance. "Study of Trees," No. 25, is another, though the frequent obtrusion of background white is unmelodic. Pretty trees appear in No. 8, "Wooden Bridge," with its broad sward and bending stream disappearing beneath the tree verdure of hill rising to a gloomy sky. In Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 5 are other examples.

A remarkable picture is No. 28, "Nocturne, Sligo"—in a murky sky house roofs dimly appear, and below brilliance and colour show only by lamp illumination. The simplicity of "In Drogheda," No. 32, is most attractive—factory chimneys and wharves are made components of a thing of beauty. This exhibition includes views of Westmeath, Wicklow, Longford and Louth, and of many places in and around the City of Dublin, which the colour sense and skill of Paul Egestorff render charmingly.

The exhibition will continue until 8th June.

BOYS' BRIGADE COMPANY INSPECTION

The Boys' Brigade is now in the fiftieth year of its existence in the Dun Laoghaire district—an event which was celebrated by the annual inspection of the local company (the 6th Dublin) in Dun Laoghaire Town Hall last night. A Service of Thanksgiving will be held in the Mariners' Church to-night, when the President of the 1st Dublin Company (the Rev. W. C. de Pauley, D.D.) will preach a special sermon.

The inspecting officer at last night's display was Mr. G. W. Shannon, who was received by the chairman (the Rev. Canon G. A. Chamberlain) and the company officers—Messrs. J. C. Evans, Moore and Atkin. After his inspection and the drill display which followed, Mr. Shannon complimented the company on its fine record and its high standard of efficiency.

Special awards of the King's Badge were made to Colour-Sergeant D. Whitten, Sergeant F. Browne and Corporal W. Long.

STRIKE OF 'BUS EMPLOYEES AT LIMERICK

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Thursday.

A lightning strike of employés of the Irish Omnibus Company took place this morning as a result, it is stated, of the dismissal of an employé. The entire city service, with the exception of one 'bus, has been suspended, as well as the outward service to various parts of the country. 'Buses are arriving in the city as usual.

ESTIMATES IN THE DAIL

LARGE SUMS VOTED TO DEPARTMENTS

RELIEF OF RATES ON LAND

MR. HUGO FLINN, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Finance, introducing estimates for public works and buildings, Office of Public Works, the Haulbowline dockyard, and a supplementary estimate for public works and buildings, in the Dail yesterday, said that expenditure on national schools had been steadily rising. From 1934 to 1937 the average expenditure had been £130,000; last year it was approximately £230,000. These figures did not represent the full expenditure; local contributions made up a very substantial additional sum. Provision had been made for the expenditure of £313,000 on the Shannon airport. Drainage schemes had been necessarily curtailed pending the report of the Drainage Commission, as the existing drainage scheme was not sufficiently elastic.

The estimate was agreed.

A vote of £2,366,000 for Old Age Pensions was agreed.

The Dail agree to a vote of £13,300 for secret service.

GRANTS TO COLLEGES

When a vote of £84,930 for grants to universities and colleges was agreed to, Mr. Hugo FLINN stated that an increase of £3,750 in the vote was due to the appearance for the first time of grants in aid to Trinity College and the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland. The grants in aid are in substitution for payments formerly made under the vote for technical instruction. The amount of the grant to Trinity College is £2,250, and to the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland £1,500.

LAND AND RATES RELIEF

DE-RATING QUESTION AGAIN

Moving that an estimate of £820,989 in respect of supplementary agricultural grants and the relief of rates on agricultural land be referred back, Mr. M. BRENNAN (F.G., Roscommon) said that in 1932 the gross demand and rates in County Dublin was £86,000, and relief by way of grants amounted to £61,000. To-day the demand was £128,000 and the grant had increased duly to £65,000. It had been argued that de-rating would help only the big farmer, but if the big farmers had their rates lowered they would be able to pay a better price for the small farmers' cattle.

Mr. G. BENNETT (F.G., Limerick) said he was looking forward to a general demand from Deputies for de-rating, which was the ultimate cure for the farmers' difficulties.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR HIGH RATES

Mr. S. T. O'KELLY, Minister for Finance, said he did not think de-rating was likely to be adopted by any Government that might come into existence. The present Government had done something more generous by halving the land annuities and thereby conferring greater benefits than de-rating would do. The Commission set up by the Government's predecessors reported against de-rating, and suggested that even de-rating would not mean increased production. If the rates were continually going up, the County Councils, which were mainly composed of farmers, were more responsible than anybody else. County Councillors were clamouring for advances in social services. Fine Gael demanded that these services should be improved. If there were de-rating to-morrow the ratepayers would not be any better off, because the money would have to be raised in taxation. He was not going to say that if the State could afford it the agriculturist was not entitled to further consideration. Agriculture was our main industry and everything that any Government could do to encourage further production should be done.

The motion in the name of Mr. M. Brennan to refer the estimate back for reconsideration was negatived.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BILL

Mr. P. J. RUTTLEDGE, Minister for Local Government and Public Health, was given leave to introduce the Local Government Bill, 1940, which is to make further and better provision in relation to local government and to make certain amendments in the law.

The bill will come up for second reading on Thursday next.

The Dail adjourned until 3 p.m. on Wednesday next.

DAMAGES AGAINST CUSTOMS OFFICERS

INCIDENT ON THE BORDER

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LETTERKENNY, Thursday.

At Letterkenny Circuit Court to-day, Owen McDonough, Ballina, County Mayo, tinsmith and sweep, was awarded £30 damages against John Hamilton, Donaghmore House, Castlefin, and Richard Jacobs, Cross roads, Ballygordon, Customs officers, for assault, wrongful arrest and imprisonment.

Mr. Paul Duffy, plaintiff's solicitor, in evidence, said that at Stranorlar Court he heard that Customs people were going to dump McDonough across the border. When he telephoned Castlefin Hamilton told him they were going to dump McDonough across the border, saying that was the instruction given by his chief.

McDonough, in evidence, said that he was arrested in Stranorlar on a charge of smuggling, and he asked for Mr. Duffy's attendance at the court, but later that evening the Customs men brought him in a motor car to the border at Clady, made him get out, handed him the gramophone and records which he had been accused of smuggling, and told him to cross the border, saying they would make him do so. He walked across the Clady Bridge into the six counties. Sergeant Hughes, of the R.U.C., was waiting on the other side, and took him into custody on another charge. He was later remanded to Derry Jail.

Sergeant Hughes, in evidence, said that Hamilton had told him that McDonough would be crossing the bridge.

J. McGee, Preventive Officer, Lifford, denied having told Hamilton that McDonough was to be dumped across the border.

Hamilton said that when Mr. Duffy telephoned him he (witness) said he was not going to dump McDonough across the border. Witness saw Sergeant Hughes, and told him McDonough would be crossing the border that night. McDonough suggested to witness a place where the gramophone and records could be left back in the six counties, and witness brought McDonough in a car to Clady Bridge and saw that he crossed the border.

Jacobs said that McDonough crossed the border of his own free will.

BROTHERS RETURNED FOR TRIAL

MEATH ATTEMPTED POISONING CHARGES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NAVAN, Thursday.

Thomas and Hugh Lynch, farmers, Scottstown, Meath, were returned for trial to-day by District Justice Goff on sixty-five charges, in which, it was alleged, that the men conspired to cause poison to be taken by John Springan (78), who had been residing alone since his return from Australia, and that they conspired to forge cheques to defraud Springan of £357 14s.

Forty-four witnesses have been examined in the case, and all the evidence was taken in camera.

U.S. CITIZENS GOING HOME

300 REACH DUBLIN ON WAY TO GALWAY

Between 200 and 300 citizens of the United States, who included men, women and children, arrived at Dún Laoghaire yesterday morning by the mail boat from Holyhead. They had travelled from London to join the s.s. President Roosevelt, which has been specially chartered to bring them from Galway to America.

They were accompanied by Commander N. R. Hitchcock, of the United States Embassy, London, who travelled with them to Galway and supervised their embarkation at Holyhead and disembarkation in Dún Laoghaire. They brought with them about 40 tons of luggage.

There were families with three and four children, many of the boys and girls being of school-going age, and there were also babies in arms. Several of the families had been from 15 to 20 years resident in Great Britain, and the average residence there of the others was about five years.

At Westland Row Station, Dublin, another 200 Americans, who had arrived during the week, joined the special train which left for Galway at 2 o'clock.

It was stated that Mr. David Gray, United States Minister in Dublin, will go to Galway to see the departure of the President Roosevelt.

The liner is expected to sail on Saturday night.

TO SEEK WORK IN ENGLAND

UNEMPLOYED MINERS' DECISION

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

KILKENNY, Thursday.

Mr. James Gilhooley, organiser of the Miners' Branch of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, stated to our Kilkenny correspondent this evening that a mass meeting of men on strike at Castlecomer Collieries was held at Moneenwoe to-day to consider the recent offer made, and this was considered absolutely unacceptable. As a consequence it was decided that the attitude of the colliery company left no hope for a settlement of the dispute, which is now in its eighth week.

The men unanimously resolved to request the Executive of their union to finance their immediate emigration to England, where mines are being developed extensively, and where there is plenty of work for miners, there being no hope of alternative employment for miners in Ireland. The Executive of the union are making the necessary grant to facilitate the men to emigrate, and the men have applied for travel permits.

HIGHER TONNAGE RATES AT DUBLIN PORT

Rates on tonnage and goods were increased yesterday at a special meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board.

On the motion of the Chairman, Capt. Alan S. Gordon, seconded by Mr. C. M. O'Kelly, the Board adopted a resolution raising the tonnage rate on vessels arriving from foreign ports from 11d. per ton to 1s. 1d. per ton, an increase of 2d. per ton, and the tonnage rate on coastwise vessels from 7d. per ton to 9d. per ton, an increase of 2d. per ton. Rates on goods, by the same resolution, were raised from 125 per cent., leviable under the Act of 1902, to 150 per cent. of the rates set out in the fifth schedule to the Dublin and Port Docks Act, 1902.

The new rates will come into operation on 1st July next.

OBITUARY

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL F. E. WHITTON

We regret to announce the death of Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick Ernest Whitton, C.M.G., which occurred at Pyrford, Surrey, on Sunday, 26th May, in his sixty-eighth year. Lieutenant-Colonel Whitton was the second son of the late Frederick A. Whitton, of the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland. He was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and he joined the Leinster Regiment in 1894. He served in the South African War, in which he won the Queen's Medal with four clasps. Serving with the British Expeditionary Force in the late war, he was severely wounded in the first battle of Ypres, and subsequently was on the General Staff of the War Office from 1916 to 1918. Lieutenant-Colonel Whitton had a knowledge of several languages—German, Italian and Russian—and was an interpreter in French. He was a prolific writer on military subjects. Among his works, in addition to numerous magazine articles, are: "The Marne Campaign," "A History of Poland from the Earliest Times to the Present Day," "The Decisive Battles of Modern Times," "Sows also a quiet trade, but slips and the continue to maintain previous rates notwithstanding weaker trend in other directions. GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

OWEN TUDOR'S PROMISE

Another Bad Day for Backers: Derby Colt May Run To-day

(FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

SALISBURY, Thursday Night.

WE have seen to-day a smart two-year-old, probably the best of those that have run so far. This was Mrs. Macdonald-Buchanan's Owen Tudor, son of Hyperion and Mary Tudor II., who, making a first appearance on a racecourse won the Salisbury Stakes by four lengths. Darling has used this race before for the introduction to racing of colts that in the following season have gained high distinction on the Turf. One of them was Cameronian, the Derby winner of the following season, and it was on the Salisbury course also that Coronach made his first appearance.

To-day's winner is a most likeable chestnut that is already a made racehorse and seems to know all about it. There was no secret about the strength of his trial, and there was such a furore for him that it was never possible to get on at anything like decent odds. He finally started with 100 to 30 asked for about him, and the price was justified by the result.

Gordon Richards rode him with sublime confidence, for when he had jumped first out of the gate like an old hand he restrained him and allowed another, Persian Dancer, to lead him. The colt was thus allowed to settle down quietly and gradually to his work, and then Richards just let him stride on.

An Easy Win

When they had passed the distance he let him have his head, and the colt went easily away from them to win almost pulling up by four lengths from Excursionist. There is everything to like about Owen Tudor as an individual, as there is about the manner in which he went about his work. It is unfortunate for his owner that in this broken year he cannot have the financial rewards that would in all probability have been his share in a full season.

The toll of beaten favourites grows longer and longer, and this afternoon was even more disastrous to backers than Bath had been, the day concluding with the defeat of an odds-on chance, Miss Paget's Sister Carol, in the Maiden Plate, where she finished unplaced behind Sikh, a 20 to 1 chance, Giralda, and Taffytrap.

Favourites Fail Again

Except for Owen Tudor, no winner started at shorter odds than 10 to 1, and, if there were good betting, these would be happy days for the bookmakers, but the betting is very light in the rings. The totalisator, however, does relatively well. Between £8,000 and £9,000 was taken at Bath yesterday.

The first winner, Scandal, who, ridden by T. P. Burns, took the Stand Selling Handicap by a neck from Royal Banner, was a 10 to 1 chance. The old son of Bulger was given away by his owner to his trainer, Laing Ward, after he had run at the last Newbury meeting.

The second winner, the filly by Umidwar out of Carn Brea, trained by P. Beary and ridden by his brother, started at 100 to 9. She finished a length in front of the favourite, the Silk Top colt, but it is unlikely that she would have done so had not the second been so badly shut in on the rails that his jockey had not a chance of getting through.

Then came the victories of Ethland, 100 to 9, and Santayana, 10 to 1, both, by the way, trained by W. Nightingall at Epsom.

Selections

Fred. Darling is likely to have his Derby colts out in force this week, for Tant Mieux is a probable for the Derby Trial Stakes at Hurst Park on Saturday, and Pont L'Eveque may run for the Longleat Stakes here to-morrow. It was a mild shock for this trainer when Pont L'Eveque was so easily beaten by Lighthouse II. at Newmarket, but there will not be anything of the class of Lord Derby's colt in this field, and PONT L'EVEQUE should win.

The Salisbury Cup, the most important race of the meeting, is on this card. If the top-weight, Fairchance, were saddled his class might pull him through, but the best may be CIMON, who will stay the twelve furlongs well.

Out of a small field for the Foal Stakes the best may be STOP PRESS; and AIRDS MOSS may beat Aprille Son in the Stewards' Plate.

GALTEE MORE.

CIMON FOR THE CUP

Pont L'Eveque Should Win the Longleat Stakes

Cimon is my confident selection for the Salisbury Cup, to be run over a mile and a half, to-day. One of Cimon's three victories last season was gained over this course and distance, and his recent prominent display behind Poetic Licence at Lewes shows that he is again approaching his best form. If there is going to be a danger to

CIMON,

I think it will be Mickey Mouse. Lord Portman's seven-year-old finished behind Cimon in the Lewes race, but now has a slight pull in the weights, which is expected to enable him to make a closer fight.

Fairchance is called upon to give weight all round, but, if he reproduces his running when fourth to Casanova at Newmarket last week, he might be equal to securing place honours.

Triguero has made only one appearance this season, and then was unplaced in the Newbury Spring Cup. He won one race in seven attempts last year, however, and, if there is going to be a "shock" result, he may be the one to bring it about.

PONT L'EVEQUE,

one of Fred Darling's fancied runners in the New Derby, will be saddled for the Longleat Stakes. If he is to play a prominent part in the premier classic, Pont L'Eveque should be successful in to-day's race, and I think that he will.

APRILLE SON,

who was a strong market order when failing at Lanark in the race won by Boomps-a-Daisy, will, I think, recover the losses in the Stewards' Plate, although he has joint top-weight. Aprille Son had run a good race at Alexandra Park prior to his Lanark outing, and a reproduction of his running on the metropolitan track should stand him in good stead here.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS

CATTLE.

DUBLIN (METROPOLITAN).

	Numbers on sale this week as compared with last.		Corresponding weeks of 1939.	1938.
Beasts	1,096	—decrease 40	1,543	2,286
Sheep and lambs...	6,559	—increase 1,191	8,378	8,015
Veal calves...	—	—decrease 1	16	9

Cattle supplies further reduced with quality somewhat improved. Buyers in full attendance, but a decidedly more cautious and uncertain tone overlung trade from opening, and ultimately it became evident that there was a substantial falling off in volume of requirements. Sales opened fair for local requirements and, on scarcity, handy weight heifers and bullocks nearly repeated previous terms, after which prices were definitely weaker in an effort to attract business. In the sagging direction trade ruled dull, and except for some small lots taken for Scotland for further feeding, bullock sales proved most disappointing. Nor is there much promise for any revival at present prices, which are considered too high. Notwithstanding the light supply and lower rates market closed with many good quality bullocks unsold. Best bullocks and heifers 59/- to 60/-, fancy drafts of latter 61/- to 62/-, good secondary sorts 55/- to 57/6, rougher 50/- to 54/- per cwt. Nice young beef cows fairly well placed, otherwise sales and prices were weaker. Bulls more difficult to sell on poor quality offered. Best young cows 43/- to 45/-, extra around 50/-, others 21/- to 40/-, and bulls 35/- to 38/- per cwt. As compared with corresponding market last year fat cattle show an increase of 14/6 to 15/- and 15/6 to 19/- per cwt, dearer on same period 1938.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

This market owing to excessive supply and more limited trade, presented a depressed appearance. Sales of choice sheep and lambs were fairly well placed in early morning. After these it proved difficult to find buyers, and the question of price altogether depended upon the grist and bite in dealings, but quite a number of pens were passed unbid for. Prime mutton 11½d. to 1/-, fancy lots around 1s. 1d., useful quality 9d. to 10½d., rougher 6¾d. to 8½d. per lb., and lambs 26/- to 40/-, extra 43/- to 50/- per head.

DAIRY CATTLE.

Beasts	260	—decrease 96	380	200

Buyers in smaller attendance and trade scarcely so good but prime cows and heifers were none too plentiful, and generally prices for these showed little change, otherwise sales were difficult to effect, and the smaller supply failed to clear at—Best cows and heifers £22 to £24, extra around £25 10/-, secondary sorts £18 to £19 10/- per head, others to best advantage.

PIGS.

	Numbers on sale this week as compared with last.		Corresponding weeks of 1939.	1938.
Pigs	1,092	—decrease 32	1,134	1,230

Supplies slightly less than last week, but with few and no buyers in attendance a decidedly slower and cheaper disposition overhung trade from opening, more especially heavy class bacon pigs, many of which were still unsold at a late hour. Sows also a quiet trade, but slips and bonhams continue to maintain previous rates notwithstanding the weaker trend in other directions. Prime light to medium weight hogs 54/- to 56/-, heavier 52/- to 53/-, sows 45/- to 48/- per cwt., slips and bonhams 22/- to 52/6 per head.

BRISTOL.—Twenty-six Irish cattle and 100 English were in the market. Trade promised to be a little firmer, and slight improvement in prices was anticipated, but, as it was, the few cattle on the market were cleared at last week's prices. Three-year-old steers £24 to £26; two-year-olds £22 to £24; heifers, £19 to £20.

YORK.—Smaller show of Irish stores. Cattle slightly dearer. Three-year-old bullocks to £34, three-year-old heifers £24, breeding heifers £16 to £18. No English stores on offer. Very light sheep show, and fat sheep many customers. Masham hoggs £64 5/-, chipped hoggs 53/- to 56/-, ewes lamb at 40/- to 68/-.

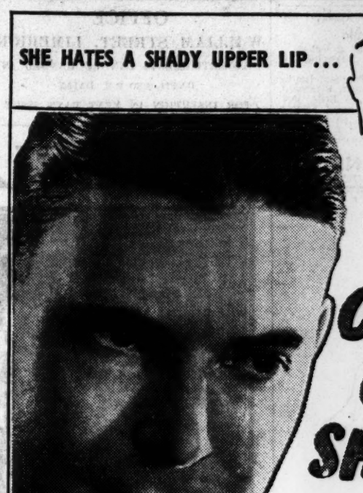
SHE HATES A SHADY UPPER LIP...



She likes a man SMOOTH from the OLIVE OIL SHAVE

So shave clean, sir. Shave with a cream that's smooth and kindly to the most tender skins. Make it Palmolive. The olive and palm oils that go to its making mean extra lather, extra efficiency, extra-fine after-effects. Start on the olive oil shave tomorrow morning!

5 reasons why Palmolive is the most popular shaving cream

1 Multiplies itself in lather 250 times.
2 Softens the beard in one minute.
3 Maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.
4 Has strong bubbles which hold the hairs erect for shaving.
5 Fine after-effects due to olive oil content.

FIRST THREE HORSES DISQUALIFIED

Incident at Gowran Park: Prescribed Wins Again

FAVOURED by weather of a delightful character, the annual meeting at Gowran Park yesterday attracted what appeared to be a record attendance. It was, in fact, a day of records, for the totalisator turnover of £1,320 17s. was easily the best at any meeting on the course, and the field of twenty-one runners for the Tetratema Cup exceeded that of any previous race for this much-coveted prize. As usual, there were many falls and other mishaps, but one that kept clear of all trouble was Jungle Lass, owned and ridden by a young officer of the Irish Army (Mr. T. M. Banahan), who won in easy style from Old Grange and New Hall II.

The winner may have been lucky, as Culleen's Actor was shaping like an easy winner when he ran out about half a mile from home. Despite the number of mishaps, there were no serious injuries incurred by horses or riders, but Mr. C. Power, rider of Hook On, had a bad shaking and had to be sent to hospital.

FOURTH HORSE WINS

There was an unfortunate happening over the Park Plate, the opening race of the day, for, after the Duchess de Stacpoole's Mr. Wolf had won an ex
